BEER SALES UP 50% WITH WIVES AT PUMPS

LONDON — Customers are drawing their own pints in Britain's first self-service pub.

Charles Farrow thought of the idea when changes in the layout of his Kensington tavern left the beer pumps on the wrong side of the bar.

Sales are up 50 per cent since the innovation.

U.S. Now Ready to Share Columbia Power With B.C.

'Major Victory' Seen for Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States apparently has tacitly recognized Canada's entitlement to downstream benefits on the Columbia River, informants said today.

They said this appears to be the real meaning behind a joint announcement today by the Canadian and U.S. governments that the International Joint Commission has been instructed to recommend apportionment between the two countries of power developed on the Columbia.

Up to now, the U.S. section of the commission has never conceded that Canada was entitled to a share of power generated on the U.S. part of the Columbia from water fed down from storage dams on the Canadian part of the river. The U.S. section's attitude was that the American government had not made up its mind on this problem.

Sources said the U.S. government would not instruct the U.S. section of the commission to discuss apportionment of downstream benefits unless it had recognized that Canada was entitled to a share of these benefits.

Thus Canada can be said to have won a major victory in the diplomatic exchanges which have been in progress for the last year or two on future development of the Columbia, which rises in British Columbia and flows through the U.S. Pacific northwest.

Informants said it may take many months before firm agreement is reached on sharing of downstream benefits.

B.C. Gov't Approval Needed

Not only would agreement between Canada and the U.S. have to be achieved but concurrence of the British Columbia government would have to be obtained. Water resources come under provincial jurisdiction.

The six-member International Joint Commission is not scheduled to meet until March 16 at Chicago when it will discuss the report of the Columbia River engineering board.

The Canadian government has indicated that Canada wants 50 per cent of power generated at U.S. dams on the Columbia from water stored behind Canadian dams.

But it is far from clear to what this 50 per cent share would apply. It might apply to one or several of Canadian or U.S. dams.

The external affairs department announced that the two governments have asked the Canadian and American sections of the commission to recommend "at an early date" on these two matters:

1. Benefits which will re-

DISC JOCKEY RECOVERS AFTER 13-HOUR SLEEP

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Tripp woke up a little later than most people today and said he felt fine after a 13-hour nap. The young disc jockey had flopped into a hotel bed Wednesday night after staying awake for 200 hours.

Tripp started his no-sleep marathon Jan. 20 to aid the March of Dimes campaign and to provide scientific information.

In Jacksonville, Fla., Dave Hunter of radio station WZRO—who said he had started two hours ahead of Tripp—today was still continuing his no-sleep marathon.

REVISE BNA ACT

Sask. Premier Seeks Broader Bill of Rights

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas has proposed an amendment to the British North America Act to protect human rights.

In a statement here today, Premier Douglas said he has written Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking that a federal-provincial conference be held to consider such a change in the act.

The premier said few Canadians could quarrel with the objectives of a bill or rights. But he said a bill contained "in an ordinary statute of Parliament" would have limitations. It would be restricted to matters within the jurisdiction of parliament.

Mr. Douglas' draft proposal would prevent Parliament or any provincial legislature from making laws "abridging freedom of speech and expression or of the press or other means of communication, or freedom of religion, or the right of lawful assembly, association or organization."

The BNA Act amendment would also prevent excessive bail, cruel or unusual punishment, and exiling of Canadian citizens. It would stop "unreasonable interference" in a person's privacy and arbitrary arrest or detention without trial.

Another section of the proposed amendment would prevent discrimination against a person because of race, sex, religion, or language. Regardless of these things, any person would have the right to vote or be a member of Parliament the right to employment and education, and the right to belong to any professional association.

ANDREI GROMYKO

LASHES WEST

Peace Or War Warning

MOSCOW (CP) — Foreign Minister Gromyko today told the Communist party congress that West Germany faces "only two alternatives" — agreeing to a peace treaty or starting nuclear armament, which "means preparation of a new war."

Any war now could "result only in the defeat of the aggressor and the extent of this defeat would be unparalleled by anything known in history."

Western leaders had embarked on an aggressive course which reflected "the still-undying hopes of some hotheads that it is possible to put back the clocks of history."

"The Soviet Union is ready today to reach agreement on the German question," he said. "But if such agreement is not reached—and that will not be our fault — then the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries will search for other ways of solving this question."

WILLISTON HAILS NEWS

B.C. Peace Plan 'Called Bluff'

The report that U.S. authorities have tacitly agreed to Canada's right to downstream benefit return was welcomed by B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston as a "first step" toward power development of the Columbia River.

He claimed "there can be no doubt this agreement has been obtained because of plans to develop the Peace."

The minister pointed out that "tacit agreement" still indicates a great deal of bargaining lies ahead to determine mutually the rate of power return.

The U.S. would pay for benefits they would receive for dam construction north of the international border because of controlled flows of water to its own power installations.

Because of the bargaining time-lag, plus the complicated engineering, construction and financing requirements for a public development on the Columbia, the Peace River is still the only solution to the urgent need for power in B.C., the minister said.

"The Peace is a single shot; the Columbia is a complex development," he stated.

"They thought the Peace was a bluff," said the minister. He felt that if B.C. had not shown it could develop alternative power of some magnitude, the U.S. would have delayed in hopes B.C. would have had to develop the Columbia to answer the urgent power need of the 1960s, or else go into high-cost thermo-generation on a wide scale.

"Up to now the U.S. authorities had never got to the point where they would sit down and seriously study downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

He added it was disturbing that his department had so far not been consulted on problems of Kootenay residents regarding possible flooding of arable lands and relocation of homes and roads.

CPR Ferry Dispute Settled by Pay Hike

The 14-months-old Canadian Pacific ferry dispute ended early today.

Federal mediator Eric Taylor wired Labor Minister Starr at 3 a.m. that the company and three unions signed an agreement extending to Aug. 31, 1961.

The agreement is expected to apply to Black Ball Ferries, which said earlier it would offer the same terms to its employees that the CPR signed.

The settlement averted the threat of a new strike in mid-February, and forestalled the possibility of compulsory arbitration.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but it is understood the officer groups Marine Engineers and Merchant Service Guild—will get a 3 per cent boost Feb. 1, another 3 per cent Sept. 1 this year, and a final 3 per cent Sept. 1, 1960.

Pay boost terms for the Seafarers' International Union were not revealed.

It was learned unofficially that the SIU will receive a greater wage increase percentage-wise than the officer groups, although this will result in a smaller boost in terms of dollars.

The increases for the officer groups are in addition to an 8 per cent hike awarded all three unions July 26, 1958, under the federal order which resulted in the government administering the ferry fleet pending a settlement.

Five Days of Negotiations

Mr. Taylor said today the agreement provides "most significantly for an end to the threat of interruption in the coast steamship service until after the tourist season of 1961 is ended."

He told The Times the agreement came after five days of intensive negotiations with union representatives conducted "without fanfare and trumpets."

Some 26 issues originally in dispute had been narrowed down to four—terms of agreement, wages, welfare and overtime.

Earlier, a Vancouver SIU spokesman had disclosed that the union was planning to strike the line immediately after federal control ended in February.

Under provisions of the federal administration order, control was to end 30 days after the current session of parliament began. On the basis of 30 calendar days, this date would have been Feb. 15, or

4 IN FAMILY SLAIN BY SON

3 Freed In Gang Slaying

OTTAWA (CP)—The murder trial of five Ottawa teenagers accused in the knife-slaying of Robert O'Leary ended suddenly today with a conviction of two on a reduced charge of manslaughter and acquittal of the three others.

James McDermott, 17, and James Post, 16, pleaded guilty to manslaughter charges and were remanded to Tuesday for sentence.

Acquitted were Henry Dupuis, Thomas John Drain and Robert Post, brother of James; all 19.

All were charged in connection with the death of 20-year-old O'Leary from knife wounds in a Nov. 23 gang fight on Somerset Street.

ENERGY BOARD TO GO AHEAD, SAYS JOHN D.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the government intends to proceed with establishment of a national energy board without waiting for the final report of the Borden royal commission.

Replying in the Commons to George McIlraith (L—Ottawa West), the prime minister noted that the Borden commission had recommended establishment of a national energy board in its preliminary report Oct. 26.

CPR Pays Fine

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway was convicted Wednesday in police court on a charge of committing a nuisance by causing a condition of air pollution. A fine of $25 was levied. The charge was laid after a complaint from a smoke inspector that smoke from a company boat docked at a downtown wharf covered his car with soot.

'No Serious Gaps' In U.S. Defences

WASHINGTON (A)—Secretary of Defence Neil McElroy told senators today that if Russia starts a war in the near future, the outcome will be decided by long-range bombers in which the United States is superior.

Neither the Soviet Union nor the U.S. now has an operational inter-continental ballistic missile, McElroy insisted. And he questioned whether Russia' vast submarine fleet could inflict heavy damage by surprise attacks with short-range missles.

McElroy's estimate of the relative U.S.-Soviet strength came during two hours of sharp questioning.

McElroy said:

1. The first ICBM operational base in the U.S. will be in use at Camp Cook, Calif., next June.

2. It is true that some range has been sacrificed for the polaris missile, originally planned as a 1,500-mile weapon, in order to speed the program. The defence secretary said this submarine-fired missile did not require 1,500 miles range to be capable of hitting vital parts of the Soviet Union.

3. There are no serious gaps in America's defences.

TRANSFUSIONS 'NOT TOO IMPROBABLE'

Animal Blood for Humans?

(See also Page 19)

It does not seem "too improbable" that animal blood soon may be used in transfusions for humans, Dr. Gordon Fryer, chief of Canada's civil defence medical services, said here today.

"It may break within six months or two years."

Blood groups of animals follow the same general classes as human blood groups, he said, and experiments have gone as far as successfully transfusing blood between different types of animals.

The next step would be between animals and humans.

Experiments in Canada have been conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, he said, by veterinarians.

"The possibility came about by veterinarian research."

He added: "We are mammals, too."

Physicians are "quite interested" in the experiments by veterinarians, he said, but are making no pronouncements until developments warrant.

Dr. Fryer, eight years chief medical officer of civil defence, said exchange of blood between animals and humans would provide a great help in any national emergency.

RAINIER CRACKS DOWN

Revolt in Monte Carlo?

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — Prince Rainier III of Monaco, one of the world's last absolute monarchs, acted dramatically today to make his rule even more absolute.

Rainier told the 21,000 Monagasques over whom he rules that some people were trying to whittle away some of his power and he wasn't going to put up with it.

Then the master of all the 368 acres he surveys suspended the constitution which his grandfather, Prince Albert, gave to the paradise principality on the French Riviera in 1911.

In a radio broadcast to his subjects, the 36-year-old monarch disbanded the legislative national council, which had been quietly snipping away at his powers for the past year.

PRINCE RAINIER
. . . master of 368 acres

The municipal council got the same treatment—summary firing.

Only last night, the popular prince and his equally popular wife, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and Hollywood, hobnobbed with council members at a gala performance in the Royal Theatre of "The Good Soup," a play about prostitutes.

The operetta-style crisis, which could probably happen only here or in Princess Grace's former realm—Hollywood — extended from the royal palace to the man on the street and the croupier behind the casino gaming table.

The populace, whether fond of him or not, was ordered by the prince not to gather in the streets or to demonstrate against the measures he was announcing.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

If there is a Mr. Pickwith in the house it could be Alex Matthew, the deputy speaker and second member for Vancouver Centre.

Jolly rotund Mr. Matthew fairly brims over with Pickwickian benevolence and his mellifluous voice is a tonic for jangled nerves.

When he rose in the Throne Speech debate and began his address with "Mr. Spea-kerr!" on a rising intonation, it sounded as if he were calling on Mr. Speaker Hugh Shantz to come out of some underground air raid shelter.

Mr. Matthew dwelt on the 200th anniversary of the birth of Rabbie Burns, the Scottish bard, and said he had noticed that CCF leader Rabbie Strachan was to propose a toast to the Immortal Memory next Saturday.

"It was last Saturday," corrected Mr. Strachan.

"Ah well," said Mr. Matthew, peering over his Pickwickian spectacles, "it's all the same. I was going to remind the honorable leader of the Opposition of the Burns philosophy that the individual is the greatest thing in God's creation . . .

"And that," he added, "is our philosophy in the Social Credit party."

* * *

In honor of the recent Rabbie Burns' anniversary, Mr. Matthew told the 999th story exemplifying Scottish thrift.

He told of a Scot who had trouble with his chest and had an X-ray taken.

"I can't afford to give you anything for Christmas," he told his wife. "But I'm going to give you a copy of this X-ray to show you my heart is in the right place."

* * *

In reminiscent mood Mr. Pickwick Matthew mentioned that this was the seventh occasion on which he had taken part in a Throne Speech debate.

Then, still beaming on the house, he said:

"It has been a most happy association."

Mr. Pickwick, you'll remember, spoke almost the same words when dissolving the Pickwick Club more than 100 years ago. But then, as Charles Dickens tells us, he filled his glass with a trembling hand and drained it.

John Squire, the outspoken CCF member for Alberni, was a little miffed to notice that when he talked about workmen's compensation Labor Minister Lyle Wicks was not in his place in the cabinet benches.

"He never seems to be around when I have something to say," Mr. Squire said.

He also regretted that there was no mention of workmen's compensation in the Throne Speech.

Mr. Squire remarked that the Albernis, in terms of what they produce, should be the richest area in B.C.

"But when measured in terms of recreational facilities and other services, we fall far behind other communities," he said.

Capt. Fred Higgins, who has been keeper of the golden gate outside the legislative chamber for 11 years past, is retiring at the end of this week.

His place will be taken by ex-Squadron Leader Bartley Philp, a pioneer aviator in the First World War.

"I am leaving with many regrets," Capt. Higgins told me. "It has been a pleasant association, but frankly I find the job tiring, with so many night sittings, and my limbs are not as well as they were."

Mr. Philp confessed that his friends have been calling him "Saint Peter" since he agreed to look after the golden gate.

FISHERMEN WARNED STEER CLEAR OF 'PEN'

BRUCH, CHANT 'ON' TONIGHT

Two Greater Victoria representatives in the legislature, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant (SC, Victoria) and Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt), will speak in the throne speech debate tonight.

It will be the second night sitting of the current session and begins at 8 p.m.

VITALITY AND STYLE

Ballet Flounces Fine 'Come-Back'

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Vitality, style, brilliance were all to be found in varying degrees Wednesday night when the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo presented three ballets on the Royal Theatre stage.

Close to 1,500 fans filled the theatre to capacity, greeting the company after its two-year absence with decided enthusiasm. It was, however, a two-year absence that had seen some changes made with obvious benefit to the standard of performance.

On its last appearance, it was a poorly disciplined, slipshod group of dancers whose lack-lustre work had imparted a blight even to the skill of the leading ballerinas.

How different this time. The ensemble danced with spirited lightness if not with consistent skill and precision. They were graceful and poised in tableau. Leads and special dancers were highly competent, and in the case of Gertrude Tyven and Tatiana Grantzeva in "Gaite Parisienne" shone with a particular lustre. Male dancers George Zorich and Alan Howard showed technical mastery.

But without doubt the most impressive performance in terms of discipline and sheer classic beauty was given by Nina Novak as the Sugar Plum Fairy in "The Nutcracker."

Miss Novak, since her last appearance here, has developed impressively in style and now has many of the earmarks of the great ballerinas of the world.

"Nutcracker" does not give one an opportunity to assess her interpretive art to any degree, but in the presentation Wednesday night she must have provided the most ardent balletomane with a keen aesthetic satisfaction.

The program consisted of the classic "Les Sylphides," charmingly done but not achieving enough of the romantic, moonlit dream-world quality to lift it much above the ordinary; a "Nutcracker" with a chopped-down prologue whose highlights included a sparkling Dance Chinoise and a breath-taking performance by Edmund Novak in the Trepak; and a gorgeous Gaite Parisienne, bubbling with humor, color and vigor, with Eleanor D'Antuono providing extra dazzle in the Can-Can.

'Paltry and Treacherous' Charge at Red Castouts

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Communist party leader today called for Russia's "anti-party" group to be called to account before the party congress.

Ivan Spiridonov, leader of the party in Leningrad, was speaking on the third day of the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party, taking place in the great Kremlin palace here.

Several speakers among the 2,000 delegates attending the congress have attacked the anti-party group, which includes such former leaders as Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, Georgi Malenkov, Yvacheslav Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov.

Spiridonov, commenting on the seven-year plan outlined Tuesday by Soviet Premier Khrushchev, said: "How paltry and treacherous, when viewed against this background, are the attempts made by the conspiratorial group of Malenkov, Kaganovich, Molotov, Bulganin and Chepilov.

"This group, which up to now has only been brought to account before the party's central committee, should now be called to account before the congress, the party's supreme authority," he said.

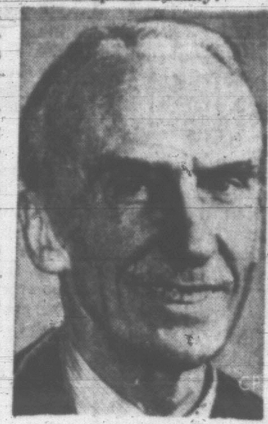
Throne Speech Debate Due to Close Friday

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—Throne speech debate is nearing its close. Unless the government suspends it to consider other business the debate will wind up on Friday.



J. M. MACDONNELL
. . . after Liberals

Wednesday a cabinet minister criticized the Liberal opposition for concentrating all its economic thinking on unemployment."

"I hope we can get away from the twisting, turning and squirming," J. M. Macdonnell, minister without portfolio, said as he replied to opposition criticisms of the government's economic policies.

The country should look on the other side of the labor coin. In December 5,680,000 Canadians were at work, 22,000 more than a year earlier. Unemployment, which was up 48,000 from December, 1957, was due to the increase in the working force.

"After all, more than 90 per cent of our working force is employed . . . and they are able, pending improvements in conditions which will mean the return to work of the unemployed, to keep the unemployed from distress."

Earlier, Labor Minister Starr said he wasn't as far in error on his unemployment statistics as J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonavista-Twillingate) accused him of being. He admitted to making an error of 7,000 in a statement of the number of jobless last March as estimated by the bureau of statistics. Mr. Pickersgill accused him of erring to the extent of 90,000.

'Go Into Buck and Wing'—CCF

Continuing on the subject of the nation's economy Doug Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) asked why Progressive Conservatives are so "afraid" of the idea of economic planning and "go into a buck and wing" whenever they hear the words.

He said the line is narrowing between free enterprise and social planning. The trend of the times was to planning in the economy.

The government has initiated action on two fronts to reduce dumping of low-priced goods in Canada.

In the first move, made two weeks ago, the revenue department slashed allowable price discounts for second-quality cotton fabrics by one-half. Dumping duties will be imposed if the price discount on this class of merchandise is greater than set by the department.

In the second move, effective Feb. 5, the department has given notice that dumping duties will be collected on imports of used or second-hand goods if the prices are lower than those considered fair by the department's appraisers.

"Isn't it filed and then printed?" asked Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby). Mr. Black said no.

Education Key To Integration Of Our Eskimos

TORONTO (CP) — A conference of teachers, churchmen, businessmen and government officials has stressed education as the key to successful integration of the Eskimo.

A day-long conference, sponsored by the National Commission on the Indian Canadian, heard reports on the Eskimo Wednesday.

Education is available to fewer than 700 of the 3,000 Eskimo children in the north, the conference was told. The Eskimo population is estimated at 11,000.

TRADITIONS DESTROYED

Delegates said Christianity has destroyed traditional Eskimo mythical figures and the vacuum must be filled with values through education.

Mining men suggested they be taught not only to learn to use modern tools, but the reasons behind their use.

Others said his survival problems must be removed and job opportunities provided while still preserving his natural dignity and art.

A group discussing the social needs and services available to the Eskimo saw a danger of "slow disintegration of family responsibilities" as the job of educating the young is taken from the parents and given to the schools.

WOULD MOVE SOUTH

Elijah Menerik, Eskimo translator on the northern affairs staff in Ottawa, said more of his people would like to come south if they could be educated in the ways of the rest of Canada.

R. A. J. Phillips, chief of the Arctic division of the department of northern affairs and recently named assistant director, blamed the coming of the rifle for much of the Eskimo's troubles.

It was not enough to tell the Eskimos to shoot with discrimination, he said. They must be taught modern principles of conservation to allow a buildup of the depleted caribou herds on which they rely for food, clothing and shelter.

He contrasted the Canadian Eskimo, many still living in tents and igloos and depending on hunting and trapping, to the Greenland Eskimo.

"There, every citizen can read and write. The Greenlanders do not just go to school, they teach in schools . . . every mayor of every town is a Greenlander."

CANADIAN WRITER PLEADS

'Don't Segregate Eskimo'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian writer Farley Mowat Tuesday disagreed with a statement by RCMP Commissioner L. H. Nicholson that Eskimos should be kept "from clustering about white centres of population unless and until they have both employment and housing."

In a telephone interview with the Tribune from his home at Palgrave, Ont., Mr. Mowat said:

"I would completely and absolutely disagree with any effort to segregate the Eskimo—and that's what the commissioner appears to be advocating."

The commissioner told the Northwest Territories council at Ottawa Monday that indications of a "growth" of objectionable habits among Canada's Eskimos, including petty thievery and prostitution, dictate that action should be taken to bar them from defence centres, mining communities and similar settlements.

Mr. Mowat said the commission's statements "seem to reflect a completely reactionary point of view, one that holds that the Eskimo is a primitive, and not quite human being.

"The sooner the RCMP look to their own business—law enforcement—the better. I have great respect for the police as policemen but they are not equipped by training or temperatment to deal with the Eskimo problem, which is sociological."

Missiles 'At Ready' For Volley Firing

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. is mass-producing one of its most reliable missiles in a form so simple that crews can fire them in volleys on 15-minute notice—even from mobile bases.

The missile is the 1,500-mile Thor, a combat-ready weapon that also is a workhorse in space research.

It can carry a nuclear warhead known as the County-Buster and it is stockpiled at bases in the U.S. and abroad.

But because of its limited range, the future of the Thor is uncertain.

SHOWN ASSEMBLY LINE

Reporters Wednesday saw parts of more than a dozen Thors on an assembly line at the Douglas Aircraft plant here and 17 finished missiles in a storage area.

At Sacramento, Calif., they saw a demonstration that a Thor can be ready to be launched 15 minutes after the fire order.

No permanent emplacements are necessary—only a metal ring on the ground for the missile's tail to rest on while it is being fueled. The missile and its erecting mechanism, its control rooms and electrical generators are all on wheels. Each missile requires only four men to fuel and fire it.

Fifteen successes and 12 partial successes out of 31 firings mark the Thor's tests.

READY FOR USE

The missile is ready for use right now, air force Brig.-Gen. Donald Coupland told reporters, but that doesn't mean it's operational. There are two other factors.

First, enough crews must be trained to use them. American and British crews are undergoing training now.

Second, they must have a target within their reach. And there are no potential targets within reach of Thor bases in the United States. Thor bases in Britain have not been announced as operational.

The Missles Can't Miss

MR. KHRUSHCHEV'S 45,000-word address to the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist Party revealed nothing that was not known or suspected regarding Russian missile production, but it emphasized once more the lag in U.S. armaments that has been worrying numerous American experts for the past few years.

Their concern has been particularly directed towards the situation created by a pressing need for progress in defensive measures and a simultaneous effort on the part of the Administration to reduce the defence budget.

Actually, Mr. Khrushchev's disclosure that Soviet intercontinental missiles are in mass production and that they can be directed with accuracy to any point on the earth's surface only duplicates similar assertions of might by various U.S. military figures from time to time.

The U.S. Strategic Air Force has on numerous occasions been described as ready to deliver lethal nuclear blows to any part of the globe. Although the effort would be slower than a missile attack, and presumably more vulnerable to defensive armaments, the effect could be sufficiently devastating as to leave little choice between one method or the other.

In the department of the shorter-range missile, the United States is probably equal in quality if not in quantity to the Soviet Union.

What will strike the average citizen, and must also strike the national leaders of all countries, is the fact that neither aggressor nor defender would escape without terrible damage, if indeed there was any escape at all. The thought of such destruction must surely stay the hand of any political or military authority.

What is equally clear is that there would be no safety if the communist world alone possessed such destructive power. In such a case, the power would never have to be used—the threat of its use would be sufficient to permit Moscow to dominate the policies of all nations.

It was this concept that led Sir Winston Churchill to see the West's possession of the atomic bomb as the best guarantee of peace, before Russia also produced it. The same principle of deterrent still holds.

It was equally this idea that persuaded the Western Powers to form the mutual defence bloc of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Life in a condition of armed stalemate cannot be enough, however. It can too easily be thrown out of balance, it is too expensive to maintain, and it is self-perpetuating rather than productive of a solution to the basic problem.

The only answer to the world's dilemma is agreement, through compromise, on the various questions that divide East and West. Such agreement will not be reached by returning a "no" to all offers of negotiation. On the other hand it will not be reached, either, by continual proposal, for propaganda purposes, of settlements which the other side has repeatedly said are unacceptable.

The avowed intent of Communism—to impose itself on every country in the world whether by peaceful means or otherwise—is not a foundation on which to build world peace. While such a doctrine stands unrenounced the free world cannot cease to defend itself by treaties, armaments and strategic defences. And while such preparations are made, it is the more difficult to convince the Soviet Union that aggressive aims are not entertained on our side.

At this moment in history the Soviet star is zooming upward like a sun-bound projectile. Russia is bending every effort to equal and surpass the United States in all forms of production. That is a legitimate enough objective, but the sense of urgent competition that must be inculcated in the Soviet population in order to achieve this aim may prove difficult to assuage later on.

At the moment the forecast can be no better than: Unsettled, with possible storms.

Mr. Bonner on Trial

BECAUSE AN APPEAL IS pending, members of the Legislature may not offer comment on the Sommers' case. It is not proposed here to discuss the merits of a case now before the court. But no legal barrier impedes discussion of the action, or lack of action, by the attorney-general on matters prior to the criminal trial.

Opposition members in the House have served due notice to that effect. They have again questioned the fitness of the incumbent to carry on the duties entrusted to him. They have every right to raise that question and to emphasize the manner in which dilatory action, long delay and an unnecessary blanket of secrecy were used to obscure matters on which the people were entitled to immediate information.

Such action has unquestionably shaken public faith in the Government. The most favorable construction that can be placed on the handling of Mr. Sturdy's original "body of evidence" is that the attorney-general was incompetent.

The public memory is not so short that it has forgotten the pleas for a speedy judicial inquiry into the issues raised by Mr. Sturdy. Had those pleas brought the proper response the administration would not now be under the cloud which early evasiveness and lack of frankness have created.

Events have disclosed the errors committed by the attorney-general. All humans, of course, are subject to error. In this instance, however, stubborn refusal to recognize mistakes for so long a period casts serious doubts on the capacity of Mr. Bonner to do his job.

Nor is the attorney-general alone involved in this criticism. Why did Mr. Bennett permit his lieutenant to pursue such a course—or did he encourage it? In what position are other members in the Government benches placed by their supine acceptance—with one exception—of the dictates of their superiors?

The premier has said on many occasions that members think for themselves. What kind of thought process has been defined here? Is it any different from that of the flock which follows automatically when the bell wether leads the way?

What public confidence can be placed in an administration stigmatized by a refusal to give prompt and due attention to the public interest for as long as Mr. Bonner and Mr. Bennett declined to act?

A Timely Decision

IN REVERSING THE DECISION of the Quebec Court of Appeal, and supporting the damage action of Mr. Frank Roncarelli against Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, the Supreme Court of Canada has censured a misuse of official powers, righted a wrong, and, by implication, pointed up the need for an effective Bill of Rights which would protect citizens under similar circumstances.

The case arose from the cancellation by Premier Duplessis, acting as attorney-general, of a liquor licence held by Mr. Roncarelli in a very fine Montreal restaurant. The cancellation was seen as Mr. Duplessis' way of punishing Mr. Roncarelli for his action in furnishing bail for members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect who had been charged with distributing pamphlets without a police permit. Without a licence Mr. Roncarelli could not survive, and lost the excellent business he had created.

Among the six justices deciding for the plaintiff, Mr. Justice Rand and Mr. Justice Judson based their opinion on the fundamental facts of the situation; that is, that Mr. Duplessis had ordered the action against the plaintiff, and that the intention was to punish Mr. Roncarelli and restrain the activities of his religious sect.

Mr. Duplessis had served notice, in other words, that to enjoy the privileges of a provincial licence a citizen must not provide aid, even in a legal way, to those who had incurred the premier's displeasure.

Such a feudal approach to governance is an anachronism in Canada today. The Canadian layman will be astonished that a case of this nature could even arise, much less get as far as the Supreme Court. But it is of a kind with the so-called Padlock Law against communism, and the restrictions on distribution of pamphlets—both items put into the laws of Quebec by Mr. Duplessis.

Current publicity on the Roncarelli case may strengthen the hand of those members of Parliament who seek to put teeth in the Bill of Rights proposed by Mr. Diefenbaker. As at present constituted, the bill does not protect citizens against infringment of their rights by provincial governments, and this is the chief protection required in this country today.

While this lack exists, there can be in effect ten different citizenships in Canada as far as certain rights are concerned. For real nationhood, Canadians' rights must be equal and guaranteed in all provinces.

Over the Hills and Far Away in Two Hours

Hutchison

THERE is no point to a ball-point pen, so far as I can see, except that it will write, without leaking, at an elevation of 16,000 feet; and there is no point to my present position at that elevation, so far as I can see, but the chance to test the pen. Well, it seems to work so perhaps this trip over the Rockies makes some sense after all. In any case, I promised my colleagues that I would try to write a column for the first time without my feet planted firmly on the ground. Actually, the ground right below me at this moment is where I had my feet most firmly planted not so many weeks ago, but it looks rather different from an airplane—and not nearly so interesting as from a saddle.

BUT we are travelling faster today. Over exactly the same territory last autumn we made about ten miles a day with hard labor. Now we are making a mile every fifteen seconds. Then we saw everything, from the mountains to the smallest flower. Now, with modern improvements, we see nothing but a contour map, a wrinkled cloth of blue and white, and sometimes a solid concrete floor of mist.

There is no work this time though, and I suppose no danger, whereas on horseback in these places one is always a few inches from disaster.

In travelling everything depends on how you feel and airplanes bring out all the weakness of my character. They terrify me. I trusted an ancient, wall-eyed, limping horse on the edge of many a dizzy precipice; I don't altogether trust a splendid Viscount plane, two able pilots and a pair of pretty stewardesses.

I AM going to write an epic, some day, on my several riding trips and call it "Over the High Rockies Without a Tremor" and a record of air travels entitled "Two Hours In a Blue Funk."

At such times as this a man wishes he had made a more judicious will and left his world affairs in more tidy shape. He begins to appreciate, as he never appreciated them on the ground, the things he will miss most if some tiny screw or rivet should fall out of this immense and delicate complex of machinery.

He regrets, for example, that he was foolish enough to leave Victoria just as the first crocus was opening its golden cup, the plum blossoms were swelling fast, the daffodils were pushing through the earth, the fine flower of local politics was burgeoning in the provincial legislature and Premier Bennett was proving once again that chivalry is still in bloom.

AN hour ago it was spring, or almost, on the Pacific coast—spring in the vegetable world, spring in the millinery shops, spring in the innocent hearts of statesmen and little children—but here it is deep winter and will be for two months yet.

Why does a man leave the coast at this season? Why, I always ask myself at this point above the spiky continental divide—why did they bother to invent the airplane in the first place? What has it ever accomplished, except to hurl us from Vancouver to Calgary in a couple of hours when we would be much better if we stayed at home? The twenty-two hours thus saved will be wasted anyway.

STILL, there is something to be gained from air travel (though not as much, of course, as from horse travel) as I observed from the window a moment ago. There lay Calgary in geometrical patterns of bluish light, flecked with patches of red exactly like some glittering child's game or perhaps an over-sized juke box unwired for sound.

Calgary slips behind in a moment, in the prairie dark a few single lights flash bravely from solitary farm houses and the broad gleam of Edmonton is just ahead. Thus at a glance the Canadian sees the nature of his civilization, which is only a tiny patch of habitation here and there, a few winking lights and squares of pavement in an empty void and all the great states of western Europe could easily be fitted into the area crossed by this plane this evening.

AT Edmonton, where we paused after the last paragraph, it was twelve degrees above zero and the natives who met us at the airport boasted of the mild weather, and I hadn't the heart to tell them that I had been picking snowdrops and yellow aconite this morning. Besides, they wouldn't have believed me. No Edmontonian is aware that any part of Canada lies west of Jasper, or perhaps Jasper Avenue at the farthest.

Since the last paragraph we have dropped in on Saskatoon and are now above the sleeping form of Winnipeg—a sprawling city as one walks its streets but from here about the size of an average backyard. And it is a great satisfaction to know that, by taking a plane, we have saved precisely forty-two hours which we shall waste among the natives of Winnipeg at some thirty below zero when we could have wasted them just as well at home, at seventy above.

As Our Readers See It

Keep Them Apart

Being a subscriber to your paper for quite a number of years I naturally read of certain little items which I am sorry to say have taken so many years to become reality.

We have had lots of talk on juvenile delinquency arising from the parents and homes, but never a word about its origination in our schools, loss of study through too much tomfoolery between male and female being put together.

A poorly educated person can easily be talked into any petty crimes which will end up in sorrow rather than happiness and the continuation of crime can be the result.

I have maintained for the last 30 years that there should be separate schools for boys, and the same for girls with a decent fence between them. Only the other evening in your paper I noticed that somebody else had the same idea. Glad that some action is being taken in this matter.

'Should Be Up in Arms'

The mothers of this country should be up in arms over the predicament of the Doukhobors.

Can we imagine the terrible anguish these parents and children have been going through for these last five years? Children who were six years of age when taken from their homes would now be 11 years old—being denied a mother's loving care for most of their childhood.

In any other instance when a child does not attend school the parents are held responsible. Why aren't the parents being punished in a more conventional way? Not by "kidnapping" their children.

These people have tried to establish their own schools as have other religions. Where other religions have succeeded, these people were thwarted by the government.

I think these children should be allowed to go home at once and we should try to solve this problem in a more Christian way.

Resented

The other day the Victoria Times carried an Ottawa press release of the remarks of Mr. A. deB McPhillips wherein he spoke disparagingly of two outstanding Canadians, the Hon. W. A. C. Bennett, LLD, MLA, and a high-ranking Canadian railway official, whom we may assume to be the president, Donald Gordon, OBE.

In deference to the Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker, prime minister of Canada, 90 per cent of the Bennett Conservatives supported Mr. McPhillips as they did in the other 21 federal ridings. Had it not been for this Diefenbaker surge of popularity, Mr. McPhillips would be wringing hands in lieu of making threats. He, like other Conservative federal members must realize their job is to concentrate on federal matters and leave provincial affairs to those more directly concerned, that is, if he or they ever hope to be re-elected. This recent outburst will be resented by literally hundreds of thousands of Bennett supporters, who will not easily forget this stab in the back.

Another Misunderstanding

I think your correspondent, Mrs. W. Birchall, might have taken her own advice and sought accurate sources of information before writing to the newspaper. Her letter shows a complete misunderstanding of the whole thing. Building contractors never bill for "parts," they leave that to automobile mechanics. Contractors normally bill for: 1, Materials used; 2. Labor; 3. Five per cent on the total of above for overhead, and, 4. Ten per cent on this latter total for profit.

The idea that overhead is half the charge and labor the other half is most amusing. Overhead is the cost of running a business. Wages, I believe, are the remuneration given to the workmen. I suggest that next time Mrs. Birchall wishes to discuss business matters she should seek her information from a business office rather than a union office, as it is apparent, from the incessant demands of labor unions who are now taking more than their share of the gross national product, to the loss of less fortunate pensioners and people who live on fixed incomes, that they are not aware of the inexorable facts of business.

Our loss of trade in the world competitive market indicates their lack of ordinary economics.

Democrat Or Tyrant?

By ALASTAIR COOKE
From Washington

THE executions in Cuba have cast doubt on the credentials of the Castro regime. Is Fidel Castro a democratic leader or will he bring a new tyranny to Cuba? The state department is unable to venture an answer.

It put all its influence behind the Batista dictatorship. Mr. Earl Smith, who has since resigned as ambassador, sided openly with Batista and spoke contemptuously of the rebels. Mr. Roy Rubottom, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last year that Ambassador Smith had done "a very outstanding job in one of the most difficult spots imaginable."

A week before the collapse of the Batista government, the state department regarded a Castro victory as impossible.

It is against this background of mistaken judgment and discredited prophecy that the wisdom of the state department on the current situation must be evaluated.

Did American military aid help the Batista forces to stay in power? The state department now claims that it stopped the arms shipments to Batista last March when it had convincing proof that he was using these weapons, in spite of repeated protests from Washington, against Castro's men.

Not Convincing

The explanation is unconvincing. The record shows that the department was driven to the embargo largely because of criticism from Congress.

Even then, and for months afterward, the department continued to argue that the amount of arms from the United States was too small to influence the fighting in Cuba. On this point Castro is entitled to his own opinion.

The state department also said that Batista could always get arms from London if Washington refused to help him. On March 5, 1958, before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, this exchange took place between Senator Morse and Mr. Rubottom.

Senator Morse: Do you think that if we had not supplied Batista with arms, Russia would have?

Mr. Rubottom: No, I do not think so. I do not think that the Cuban government would accept arms from Russia.

Senator Morse: Do you think Great Britain would have supplied them?

Mr. Rubottom: I think that Great Britain might have sold them, yes.

Senator Morse: If we protested, do you think she would have?

Mr. Rubottom: Yes, I think she probably would. We have other cases where Great Britain has sold arms in Latin America.

Senator Morse: Over our protests?

Mr. Rubottom: No, I would not say over our protests exactly, but I think where it may have stretched possibly the economic and other capacities of countries to receive and put to use the arms.

Public Record

This criticism of British policy forms part of the public record. Privately, officials in the state department seek to justify their own mistakes by pointing to the still greater follies committed by the Foreign Office. At all events, there are many people in Congress who agree with Senator Morse that American arms certainly did not weaken Batista in his struggle with Castro and probably strengthened him.

This background is essential to an understanding of America's erratic and uncertain policy now. A great deal is being said, both in Congress and the state department, about the virtues of non-intervention in Cuba's internal affairs. The facts are rather different and much uglier.

The United States actively intervened over many months to help Batista. It intervened in vain, and now it is afraid that reprisals against Castro will continue the policy of discrimination. Hence the official chatter about neutrality.

There is also a willingness to recognize that the brutality and violence being shown by Castro may be the horrid retribution for Batista's years of repression.

In the cruel arithmetic of persecution the brutalities of Castro amount to a mere fraction of Batista's terrible toll. All this, of course, in no way excuses or justifies Castro's poliices: it merely provides a standard of comparison for judging them.

Aid Wanted

At present the overwhelming view in Washington is that American pressure on Castro would strengthen him rather than break him, but Cuba wants economic aid and the state department is ready to listen once the bloodshed stops.

Some of Castro's trusted friends in Congress are urging him to end the executions before American opinion is sickened and outraged. The new ambassador will make the same representation.

Efforts will also be made to hasten the holding of Cuban elections, now eighteen months away, and to have some neutral observers on hand to testify to their fairness.

The most constructive suggestion by far has come from Professor J. K. Galbraith of Harvard, who wants the United States in the future to give nearly all its help, both economic and militarily, to governments in Latin America with free and representative institutions. Dictatorships should stand at the bottom of the list.

This open reliance on the democratic virtues, Professor Galbraith believes, would in itself strengthen the tradition of freedom in Latin America, especially if these countries know they will get a premium in increased American aid by repudiating the methods of dictatorship and force.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK By RUTH ENKE

The Recluse

MISS MARVIN was queer, the island children said. Some of them made stories up about her. A few were even scared to venture on to the lonely headland where she lived.

For Miss Marvin had chased the Ferguson boys when they were throwing stones at a crippled bird on her beach. She'd shouted that she'd shoot them if they came that way again, they reported to their parents.

"How can she live there all alone?" the Island women said. "Just rowing round to the store once a month to get her supplies and all that mail. It's no life for a woman. And she doesn't have to, that's the funny thing. They say she has all kinds of money back in England."

Ruth

That's why the islanders were so surprised when, on a day in early spring, Miss Marvin appeared at the Public Wharf on Boat Day and took the weekly steamer to Vancouver.

They were even more surprised when she came back with a pale little girl of about 10.

"The child of a friend of mine," Miss Marvin said to the storekeeper-cum-postmaster, who was the only islander she ever spoke to freely. "Coming to stay with me for the summer."

"Poor kid," people said as the island grapevine worked overtime. "Really, someone should put a stop to it."

★ ★ ★

But no one did. And it was just as well, because Miss Marvin, knowing a great deal about the child's background, was able through quite unconventional means, to give her a strength that helped her greatly in her adult life.

But no one on the island knew of this until, years later, someone saw a series of letters Miss Marvin had written to a friend in England.

"I hardly knew where to begin," Miss Marvin had written. "She has her father's poetic streak. But her nervous inheritance, her early childhood, and that appalling tragedy were all against her. It was like coaxing a frightened little creature. A sudden step would have terrified her. So we went very slowly and just did simple things."

"Without seeming to teach her," Miss Marvin wrote in another letter, "I've tried to show her a little of the recurring wonders of nature—the fat sticky buds on the Balm of Gilead, the soft feel of the new growth on young firs, the sweet smell of the lavender spikes on the bush by my back door.

"We've played a little game called Clever Seeds. It's been very simple because she'd never had anything like that, and in some ways she's rather backward for her age. You know the sort of thing—clinging seeds, flying seeds, and pods that burst wide open. But she seemed to like it, and began to play it on her own.

"We've also played the Listening Game my grandmother taught me when I was a child. In the woods, or on the beach, we've listened quietly to all the different sounds, and tried to see who could get the most.

★ ★ ★

"Through this fine summer, we've slept out of doors. Last night we slept on the beach, and when I woke quite early, she was sitting up, looking very happy and watching a heron fishing from the point.

"We've had to do this step by step because when she first arrived she was terrified of the dark. Wanted to shut all the windows and lock the doors. Wouldn't stir outside. I've never seen a child more frightened. But now that fear has gone. Its going is a little thing, perhaps, but to me it seems a triumph."

Yes, old Miss Marvin was queer the island people said with truth, but her letters reveal a special kind of sanity.

YOUR HEALTH By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

The New Psychiatry

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

As I have been saying in this column, a revolution is taking place in psychiatry. At first some of the psychoanalysts were a bit flabbergasted by it because it knocked so many of their Freudian theories of childhood psychic trauma into a cocked hat. How could these theories be correct when now, in a few minutes, one can turn a normal man into an insane one with a tiny dose of some drug, or one can cause an insane man to "snap out of it" with a few doses of another drug?

Alvarez

To my great amusement an old patient of mine just came in with a grin to say that he guesses his old psychoanalyst has decided to follow the maxim—"If you can't lick 'em, join 'em." When, yesterday, he went to see the analyst, instead of putting him back on the couch, the doctor said, "No; I am now doing things differently; come in every day and I'll give you a 'shot' that will soon snap you out of this spell!"

One of my good friends, an eminent psychiatrist, spends half a day in a physiologic laboratory, studying the functions of the brain. Another dear friend, a great leader in psychiatry, when recently I visited with him, showed me his research laboratory in which he has a number of men studying the ways in which drugs modify the behavior of the brain in monkeys and other animals. My good friend, Professor Hess of Zurich, Switzerland, got the Nobel Prize for his lifelong laboratory studies of the functions of the brains of animals. Today, able psychiatrists are studying the behavior of the brain, the way it works and the way it responds to stimuli administered with the help of tiny insulated wires which are passed through a little hole in the skull into various parts of the brain.

Fortunately, the substance of the brain is not sensitive, so that these procedures cause no pain. Of late years, a number of eminent brain surgeons have been operating under local anesthesia so that they can study the functions of the brain when a man is awake and can say what he feels when certain parts of his brain are stimulated with a delicate electric current. Other eminent psychiatrists and neurologists, like Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs, are studying the tiny electric currents which are constantly being formed in the brain.

All these new studies delight me. They are so much more likely to bring good and useful results than have those so-called studies in which a man sat down at his desk and wrote a book full of unproved and unprovable theories, mainly lifted from the writings of Freud.

Quite a few people ask me if it is safe to keep taking aspirin, year in and year out. So far as I know, it is. The only people I know of who are harmed by aspirin soon know they must not take it. They seem to be, in a way, allergic to it. I know a woman whose face swells up whenever she takes aspirin. In recent years we have had a good chance to find out if aspirin is at all dangerous because many doctors have used the drug in enormous doses in an attempt to help people with rheumatoid arthritis.

Actually, as I remember, Dr. Harold G. Wolff, years ago made a study of human sensitiveness, he showed that it hardly pays to take more than two aspirin tablets at a time, because after that it doesn't work any better. The amount of the calming effect obtained with two tablets is the same as that obtained with 10 tablets.

There are a number of drugs like that. They make me think of the man who has one key to his front door in his pocket. It doesn't help him to carry 10 more keys. They won't do him any more good than the one does. The one does the job it was made to do. It is the same way with vitamins. For instance: the amount of Vitamin B 12 which will relieve the symptoms of a person with primary anemia is so small that one can hardly see it with the naked eye. Experts tell me that it does not do any good to take a handful of the stuff.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

CITY'S WEATHER RECORD

Sunshine, 1959	73.1 hrs.
Last year	48.1 hrs.
Precip. to date	4.99 ins.

SYNOPSIS—Coastal weather is mostly cloudy and a weak disturbance moving inland over Washington later today will cause some showers on the southern B.C. coast late this afternoon and evening. Another storm development now approaching the weather ship in the Pacific should meet opposition from a high-pressure ridge on the south coast Friday so that showers will be confined mostly to the northern part of the coast.

Cold Arctic air over the northern interior of B.C. is causing light snowflurries and may advance slightly southward in the next two days. However, valleys in the extreme south will remain in milder Pacific air that will give persistent cloudiness.

Bridge Blast Apology Due, Strachan Told

CCF Leader Robert Strachan was asked in the legislature Wednesday to apologize to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi for an "untimely outburst" following the collapse of the Second Narrows bridge in Vancouver.

Alex Matthew (SC-Vancouver Centre) said just after this "unspeakable tragedy" Mr. Strachan came out in the press blaming the highway minister for it.

"He was playing politics," Mr. Matthew said, "and it was a most untimely outburst. I call on him to apologize to the minister for this indiscretion."

There were cries of "shame" from some of the government benches but Mr. Strachan was not in the House at the time. He was notified of Mr. Matthew's request later by Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

Mr. Matthew also lashed out at the CCF for questioning government members' election campaign expenses.

"I have my own personal accounts to show what I have to pay out for campaign expenses," he said.

Insurance Firm Owned in B.C. To Quit Business

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

A Vancouver-owned insurance firm which wrote "a tremendous amount of business" in Victoria is going out of business at the end of the year.

Canadian Western Insurance Co., formed three years ago by 49 Vancouver businessmen, will discontinue underwriting new business Feb. 1, president K. Vernon Kirkby announced.

Mr. Kirkby said CW has lost about $200,000 since its inception.

Reserves are adequate to carry all existing business, he said. Policyholders are protected by a financial guarantee posted with the superintendent of insurance.

Hagar Investments Ltd. became Victoria agents for Canadian Western about two years ago.

"It's a pity that Canadian Western is going out of business," a spokesman for Hagar's said. "The company had a general insurance package deal allowing for payments on a long-term, convenient basis. They underwrote everything from yachts to cars to houses. We didn't have to sell it—the public wanted it."

In Vancouver, CW president Kirkby blamed low insurance rates and heavy fire losses for his firm's failure.

The Hagar spokesman agreed. Rising auto insurance claims were also a factor, he said.

The number of auto insurance claims on Vancouver Island dropped 10 per cent last year, he said.

"But the average auto claim soared to $96 south of Bamberton and climbed even higher north of Bamberton where much of the driving is done at high speed.

"As you know," he said somewhat sadly," speed is the main factor in auto accidents."

Low incidence of house fires in the Greater Victoria area resulted in a lower rate for coverage, he said.

"Then, as so often happens, there was a rash of house fires and claims mounted enormously."

Like the beanstalk which grew and grew and grew, Investors Mutual of Canada, the nation's largest mutual fund, shows no signs of a stunted growth.

The annual report shows IMA had net assets of $161,295,000 at Oct. 31, an increase of approximately $39,000,000 over 1957. Total sales of shares exceeded $24,000,000, up about $4,500,000. Total net income was up 11 per cent.

Dividend returns have averaged an annual return of 17.2 per cent. In the same eight-year period the consumer price index has had an annual approximate increase of two per cent.

MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. net income rose sharply in the last quarter of 1958. A company statement shows income of $3,629,280 against $1,158,171 in the same quarter of 1957. Sales were up from $33,933,908 to $47,661,468.

Company president Ralph Shaw said the increased sales and profits picture was tempered with the fact the 1957 quarter reflected the pulp and paper strike which began in the middle of November and extended into 1958.

The "Lark" is proving to be a "lulu" for Studebaker-Packard.

Studebaker pinned its hopes on its new, small auto, the "Lark," to bolster sagging sales and profits. The gamble has paid off. The American division of Studebaker reported fourth-quarter of '58 sales of $88,652,000 yielded a profit of $3,700,000.

This was the first three-month period in which Studebaker has reported a profit since the final quarter of 1953.

The "Lark" was introduced several weeks later in Canada than in the U.S., but already Canadian president Gordon E. Grundy says the firm's U.S. sales boom will be paralleled.

In the first weeks of January, sales of Studebaker vehicles in Canada have risen 90 per cent over the same period last year.

If this keeps up Studebaker-Packard may change the name of their profit buggy from the "Lark" to the "Lovely Lark."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Buying Bolsters Prices at Toronto

Buying strengthened the Toronto stock market today in active mid-afternoon trading. Industrials gained to overcome almost all of Wednesday's loss.

Base metals were up on the strength of increased copper prices in Belgium. Western oils gained but golds slipped off a few decimal points.

Coppers paced the New York market recovery today in active trading. Kennecott and International Nickel were gainers.

AT TORONTO among industrials Moore Corp. and Loblaw Inc. each added 1 point.

International Nickel was a standout among base metals, climbing 2¼ points at 89.

New Mylamaque was the leader among lower priced mines, rising 10 cents at $1.77. Consolidated Halliwell was the most active issue, up 3 cents at 89 cents on a turnover of 220,000 shares.

Western oils were stronger as Bailey-Selburn and Canadian Husky each added ¼ and Triad moved ahead 15 cents.

AT NEW YORK among Canadian stocks Granby Mining rose ½, Walker Gooderham ⅛, Hudson Bay Mining ⅝. Distillers Seagrams was off ¼ and Dome Mines ⅛.

Brazilian Traction, Canadian Marconi, and Shawinigan were up ⅛. Among Canadian stocks on the American Exchange Molybdenite, Richwell, Sapphire Petroleums and Scurry Rainbow Oil were all up a fraction. Eureka dropped 1-16.

AT MONTREAL prices were irregularly higher in fairly active trading today on the stock exchange. Most changes were confined to fractions.

AT LONDON, Orange Free State gold shares were the outstanding feature of the stock market today.

Freestate Geduld reported a valuable metal discovery and its shares rose to a record high of 146s 3d. Other Orange Free State issues showed substantial gains.

Gilt-edged securities were generally firm although some closed fractionally below their best prices for the day.

AT VANCOUVER, prices were slightly lower on a moderate market during the forenoon. Basco Oils moved 11,500 at 71. Mid-West Copper traded 10,000 at 21. Trojan sold 4,000 at 20. Western Explorations moved 2,000 at 27.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices generally showed irregularity and were easier today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Dealings were quiet.

Flax trade disclosed fairly liberal offerings, mostly from American sources. Although export houses were buyers on declines, there were no reports of overseas business.

Modest shipper orders appeared in oats and barley associated with small parcel lot sales of barley to the United Kingdom. Prices moved narrowly.

Rye displayed hesitation under local selling.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were up ⅛ cent from Wednesday.

Fulton Charges 'Interference' On Part of U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — The United States was accused Wednesday night of intolerable interference in the domain of Canadian commerce in its prosecution of anti-trust cases relating to the activities of Canadian companies.

Justice Minister Fulton expressed to the anti-trust section of the New York Bar Association Canada's concern over what he described as "the threat to our sovereignty over Canadian commerce."

In his criticisms of anti-trust actions in American courts against parent companies of Canadian firms, Mr. Fulton told the bar association session:

"The situation, as it strikes us, can be put in this way: That these cases reach into affairs that we regard as relating to our own sovereignty.

RIGHT TO INTERFERE?

"These cases involve on the part of the United States more interference, and apparent assertion of a right to interfere, in commercial projects in Canada than is fitting or acceptable between two friendly but independent countries."

Fulton said the answer to the problem is not to be found in the countries involved standing fast on their own legislation and insisting they are justified on the basis of strict legalistic interpretation of international law.

ADVISES RESTRAINT

"We feel that the proper solution to the problem lies in . . . restraint in seeking from the courts, or applying, measures that interfere directly, substantially and deliberately with matters that are essentially matters of Canadian commerce within Canada.

"If the United States authorities entertain feelings of concern that practices carried on in Canada are unduly restrictive of international trade, it would appear that this concern should be expressed through the usual channels."

Fulton said Canada's specific objections to an action such as the one against radio and TV manufacturers are threefold:

"That it is concerned not so much with strict compliance with U.S. laws in the U.S. as it is concerned with actions in Canada of Canadian companies which actions are in accord with Canadian laws and Canadian commercial policy;

"That compliance with the decree sought may bring these companies in Canada into conflict with Canadian laws and —or policy;

"And thirdly that the only way effect could be given such a decree is if American directors of U.S. companies give instructions to directors of Canadian companies to do something in Canada which is not in accord with Canadian business or commercial policy but is dictated by American policy."

'ACT NOW ON JOBLESS'

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer Wednesday urged the Ontario Legislature to go into special session to deal with unemployment.

He told the Legislature it is "a matter of great, urgent, public importance." About 200,000 were jobless in the province, affecting 600,000 including their families.

Perigeux in France was the birthplace of the ancestors of Paul Revere of American Revolution fame.

CARS PILE UP IN U.K. FOG

Bang . . . Bang . . . 30 Times

LONDON (AP) — Thirty automobiles piled up in one crash Wednesday night as Britons groped their way home through the worst fog of the winter.

The blanket of mist over much of southern England also caused a train wreck.

Planes were grounded and incoming flights sent elsewhere. Trains were hours late or did not run at all. Thames shipping dropped anchor. Ticket collectors walked ahead of some buses with flashlights.

The auto smash came when a line of cars heading for London suddenly ran into a wall of fog on the Kingston bypass.

The first automobile braked suddenly. Then bang, bang, bang.

Wreckage was scattered for half a mile. Six persons were injured.

At Esher, seven miles away in Surrey, a passenger train from London plowed into the rear of a freight train. The freight train guard suffered a broken leg.

NICE BIT OF HOMEWORK—AT HOME

Tropic Isles Off Limits As Navy Kept in School

By MONTE ROBERTS

"Join the navy and see the world" may still be a good slogan on a long-term basis. But it won't apply to the RCN Pacific Command this summer.

There'll be no official announcement or statement from Ottawa, but all units of the fleet here will do their training and operational exercises in the waters they'll defend in time of war—in other words, the western sea approaches and the Alaskan sea frontier.

Retirement of the cruiser Ontario marked an end to "flag showing" in far-flung ports, at least for the time being.

The destroyers of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will work mainly in B.C. and Alaskan waters— venturing no farther afield than the Esquimalt-Hawaii-California triangle.

RUMORS DISCOUNTED

The frigates, assigned to cadet training, also will stick to the "milk run," despite recurring rumors to the contrary;

And the coastal minsweepers will operate in waters they were designed for.

You can't tell the ships apart without a program. By mid-April, there'll be seven destroyers based at Esquimalt, each of which will look exactly like six other destroyers.

The same, with minor differences, goes for the eight frigates. And the 'sweepers, of course, have always been four peas in a pod.

So amaze your friends. Use this handy-dandy guide to identify the ships by the large numbers painted both port and starboard.

Second Canadian Escort Squadron, all "St. Laurent" class anti-submarine destroyers, official designation DDE:

HMC Ships Assiniboine (234), St. Laurent (205), Saguenay (206), Skeena (207), Fraser (233), Margaree (230) and Ottawa (229).

Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron, all modernized Canadian "River" class frigates, designation FEE:

HMC Ships Sussexvale (313), Ste. Therese (309), Stettler (311), Antigonish (301), Beacon Hill (303), New Waterford (304), New Glasgow (315) and Jonquiere (318).

Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron, all "Bay" class, designation MCB:

HMC Ships Fortune (151), James Bay (152), Miramichi (163) and Cowichan (162).

And then, of course, there's the good ship Oriole (QW-3). But you shouldn't need a program to identify her, because she's the only commissioned sailing ship in the whole Canadian navy.

Come home, Joe!

THE WORLD IS SIX FEET WIDE

Crushing Monotony Worst Of Life in Penitentiary

A Canadian Press reporter has been permitted to tour six of the country's penitentiaries to see how prisoners live and work. In this article he describes the monotonous routine of prison life.

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Morale-crushing monotony is the spectre that most often plods the corridors of Canada's penitentiaries.

Most prisoners spend 16 or 18 hours daily alone in a windowless cell. The average cell is five or six feet wide, 10 feet long and nine feet high.

A cot, a chair, a small writing table and a lamp plus toilet and wash basin with running water are usual cell furnishings.

A few cells still in use at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., and Dorchester, N.B., have only a metal bucket for a toilet and a metal basin for washing.

SOME IN DORMITORIES

Some prisoners, mostly those working on prison farms, live in dormitories. Virtually all the 425-odd in the Federal Training Centre at St. Vincent de Paul live in this type of accommodation.

Dormitory prisoners usually eat together, four at a table, within the dormitory. Prisoners at the training centre eat in two large mess halls.

But most penitentiary prisoners sleep, eat every meal, wash, study, read, write letters, meditate and go to the toilet in an individual cell seven days a week.

They are allowed to write four letters a month, only to close relatives, and may have one half-hour visit each month from up to three close relatives at once. All correspondence, in and out of prisons, is censored.

STRAP AND "SOLITARY"

For discipline, the strap can still be used, but most often a prisoner is sent to a "dissociation" cell—as the solitary confinement area now is known. He can be put on a bread-and-water diet for up to three days or on bread, water, boiled potatoes and milkless, sugarless oatmeal for 21 days.

Dissociation cells shown this reporter at St. Vincent de Paul contained only a cement slab for a bed and a cement block for a chair.

The average penitentiary vocational training course lasts about a year. There aren't enough to go around, so that many prisoners have to wait for an opening. In most cases at present, prison shops are overcrowded, with as many as three men at a job requiring one.

Living conditions and other problems are being considered by authorities now working on a broad program of penal reform. As a result of the overhauling, changes in the penal system will take shape in the next few years.

PRISON ROUTINE

The average penitentiary working day, although it varies from prison to prison, goes about like this:

6 a.m.—Prisoners get up.

7 a.m.—Released from cell to file past a slot in the kitchen wall through which meals are passed on a metal tray. The concealing slot prevents prisoners working in the kitchen from trying to give special service to their friends.

8 a.m.—After eating breakfast in the cell and returning the tray, they line up and go off to work with gang to which assigned.

11 a.m.—Return to the dome—central rotunda-like area into which all wings, or ranges, of the main cell block open—for lunch, again eaten in the cell.

11.30 a.m.—Allowed to sleep or to read a book or magazine from the prison library, or a newspaper if able to afford a subscription. Prisoners may also listen to one of two stations usually available on the radio earphones in each cell.

1 p.m.—Return trays to kitchen and go back to work.

4 p.m.—Return to dome for supper in the cell again.

5 p.m.—Locked in for the night and counted for the fourth time that day.

EVENING IN CELL

During the evening prisoners may read or listen to the radio, or work at hobbies such as leathercraft, until about 10 or 11 p.m.

From May to October—before daylight hours get too short—prisoners for the last couple of years have been allowed to spend two or three hours an evening exercising in the prison yard, usually in nightly relays of a fraction of the total population.

On weekends they don't work, except at essential duties such as in the kitchen. Chapel services are held Sundays for Roman Catholics and Protestants. Movies are shown for a couple of hours.

The general rule is that all prisoners must be locked up before dark.

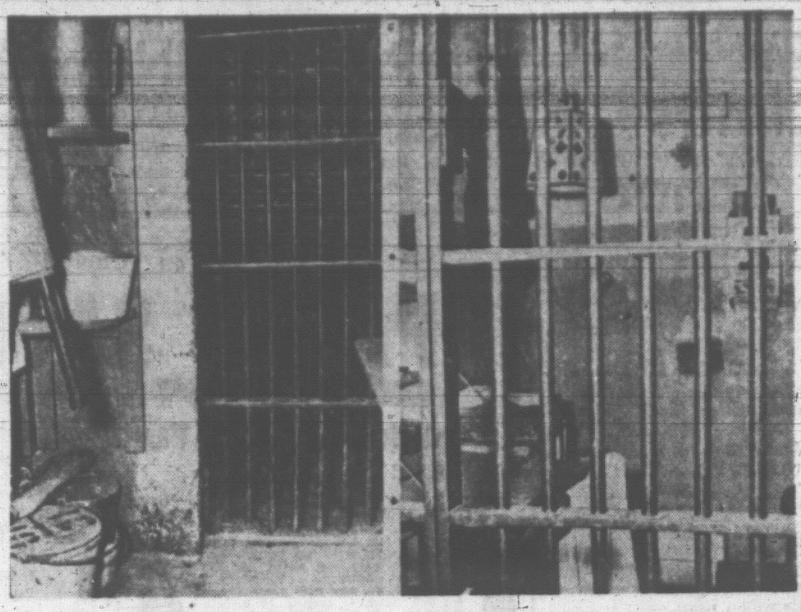
AN EXCEPTION

The exception is the training centre, where all prisoners are allowed to go outside to the prison yard or into the recreation hall and library from 6.30 to 9.30 p.m. regularly.

For recreation, prisoners play softball, touch football, basketball, soccer, hockey, tennis and other games, depending on the season and the facilities.

At the B.C. penitentiary in New Westminster, a high wire fence with corner towers for riflemen has been erected around a recreation ground outside the prison walls. In the other seven penitentiaries, all exercising is done inside the walls.

Boxing and wrestling is another pastime. Weight-lifting and other body-building endeavors also engage a number of prisoners.



INSIDE VIEW — This is what the prisoner sees in his cell at St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary in Quebec. Cells were condemned as unfit for human habitation about 25 years ago but over-crowding in the prison keeps them in use. Similar conditions exist at the Dorchester, N.B., institution. Note the lidded metal bucket and metal basin in picture at left, only facilities for the prisoner's daily ablutions.—(CP Photo.)

MLA URGES BONDING

'Car Crooks' Hit

The B.C. government was asked Wednesday to require bonding of all used car dealers as a public protection against "crooked dealers."

A. S. Matthew, (Vancouver Centre) told the Legislature: "It's about time the province raised the used car business out of the gutter."

He said Vancouver Better Business Bureaus and police estimate 10 per cent of dealers in that city are dishonest. He proposed a bond of $10,000 as is required in Alberta.

B.C. Power Service Asked For Peace River District

Extension of B.C. Power Commission lines to several rural areas in the Peace River areas adjoining Dawson Creek and Fort St. John was proposed Wednesday in the legislature by Stan Carnell (SC-Peace River).

He also called for additional highways work, drawing attention to one bridge which is washed out, sometimes several times a year.

He called for completion of roads to create a triangle route connecting Hudson's Hope, Fort St. John and Dawson Creek. Lack of a road over 10 miles of this route cost the Pacific Great Eastern Railway $30,500 in hauling ties, which "would have gone a long way toward the road construction."

SIGNED TODAY

It's All Set!

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson were matched today for a summer world heavyweight title fight.

The signing ceremony was staged today before platoons of reporters and cameramen.

However, promoter Bill Rosensohn will not announce the exact date or site of the fight until he has had a chance to shop for the best bid among 10 cities that are interested in holding the million-dollar international 15-rounder.

Today's signing ends more than four months of negotiations for 24-year-old Patterson to make his fourth defence of the world crown against 26-year-old Johansson, Sweden's unbeaten European champion.

UPSET STARTED IT

Dickering was started on the night of September 14, when handsome brown-haired Johansson knocked out Eddie Machen, of Redding, Calif., in the first round at Goteborg, Sweden.

That was a sensational upset because Machen, at the time, was the world's top contender and favored at 4-1.

Bookies have made Patterson a 3-1 favorite to beat Johansson, although Ingemar is taller and heavier. The hard-hitting Swede stands six-feet-one and he weighs 198 pounds.

HERMOSILLO, Mex. — Lauro Salas, 128, Los Angeles, knocked out Chango Ceballos, 130, Hermosillo, 6.

'HAVE A SEAT, SIR!'

Wearing pained expression as he takes a seat is Al Curtis, Victoria amateur boxer who turned in surprisingly good showing against Canadian army champion Lawrence Cardinal. Army belter won unanimous decision, dumping Curtis twice in three-round slugfest. Wednesday's action-packed bouts at Legion Auditorium were city's first in 18 months. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Could It Be Ed's Become Serious?

Dorohoy Adds Five Points To Soaring Total

Eddie Dorohoy is starting to bolt away in the Western Hockey League's individual scoring race.

When Calgary Stampeders beat New Westminster Royals Wednesday night, Dorohoy scored two goals and three assists for the Alberta team to increase his point total to 76, eight points more than Seattle's Guyle Fielder, the league's defending scoring champion.

Dorohoy's scoring helped Stampeders to their 15th straight win to consolidate their hold on first place in the prairie division.

In another WHL game, Edmonton Flyers were shut out by the visiting Winnipeg Warriors 6-0.

ROLLINS HURT

Al Rollins, Warriors' goalie, was struck over the eye by the puck in the third period and required eight stitches to close the gash. But he returned to the ice to score his second victory in five starts with Winnipeg.

Besides Dorohoy, Calgary's scorers included Lou Jankowski with a pair, Ron Leopold and Bill Hay, each with one.

Gord Fashoway scored twice for New Westminster, and Max McNab added one.

The first period was just over eight minutes old when Dorohoy made sure his streak stayed alive by setting up linemate Lou Jankowski for the game's first goal. It extended to 17 the number of consecutive games in which Dorohoy has been credited with one or more assists and to 21 the number of consecutive games in which he has scored one or more points.

League record for continuous point-getting is 23 games and was set earlier this season by Barry Ross of Winnipeg.

LAST NOVEMBER

Dorohoy's streak started in Calgary Nov. 29 when he scored one goal and set up two others against Edmonton. Since then, Dorohoy has scored 16 goals and set up 38 others for 54 points from 21 games. At one time trailing Guyle Fielder by 18 points and apparently out of the race for the league scoring championship, Dorohoy now leads the Seattle centre by eight points.

Stampeders took a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period, but the two teams split four goals in the second. Calgary scored the third period's only goal.

Three of Calgary's six goals came when New Westminster was short-handed.

CAMPBELL BACK

Goalie Don Campbell made his first appearance in Royals' net after sitting it out for four games with an injured hand. He handled 36 shots during the game. Roy Edwards, in Calgary's goal, turned aside 29 shots.

For his first 40 games this season Dorohoy's total is 76 points—23 goals and 53 assists. Last season in 58 games for the Cougars he had 75 points and his best previous total — 87 points — was made when he won the scoring championship while playing for the Cougars in the 1950-51 season. Although he'll play only 64 games this season, he seems certain to go over 100 points.

Paced by their hot first line, the Stampeders haven't been beaten since they dropped a 3-2 overtime decision to Edmonton Dec. 19. Since then they have beaten Winnipeg Warriors five times, Saskatoon, Seattle, Spokane and New Westminster twice each and Edmonton and Vancouver once each. They've scored 80 goals in the 15 games, allowed only 37, won six games on the road and nine at home.

At Edmonton, Bob Chrystal, with two goals, Bill Mosienko, Don Johns, Gerry Brisson and Ray Brunel scored for Winnipeg.

Warriors scored four times in the first period and twice in the second. Neither team managed to score in the third period.

Both Rollins and Edmonton's goalie, Ed Johnston, handled 25 shots on goal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Ralph (Tiger) Jones, 156½, Yonkers, N.Y., outpointed Joey Giardello, 162¼, Philadelphia, 10.

IT SEEMS THEY HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN DOROHOY

The rush is on and it could mean the largest crowd of the season will turn out to Memorial Arena Saturday.

Tickets for Saturday night's Western Hockey League game between Victoria Cougars and Calgary Stampeders were moving "at an extremely brisk pace" this morning said Mrs. Evelyn Wallis, in charge of ticket sales at the Hudson's Bay ticket office.

The big attraction, of course, is the appearance of Eddie Dorohoy, Stamps' record-bound centre who was traded to Calgary last summer. It will be Dorohoy's second appearance since being traded.

SAD DAY AT SANTIAGO

Soviets Shock U.S. Cage Club

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Russia has caught up with the United States in basketball.

A Russian team Wednesday night beat the Americans for the first time at the game when they pulled off a 62-37 stunning victory in the world amateur basketball tournament.

"This victory will live in our memories for a long time," said Alexandri Gomelski, one of the Russian coaches.

When the final whistle sounded the Russian players took Stepan Standarian, another coach and tossed him into the air in a blanket.

MUST PLAY CHINA

The Russians' victory means they can clinch the championship by playing Nationalist China, Friday night.

Even if they lose to the Chinese, who have not won a game, they would take the title on the basis of points average. The victory was their fifth in as many starts. All other teams have lost at least one game. The United States plays Chile tonight and dangerous Brazil on Friday.

However, the Russians have said they will not play the Chinese because of political reasons. The International Basketball Federation says if Russia doesn't play Nationalist China it will forfeit all previous games.

In the event the Russians do not play the Chinese, the tournament winner probably will be decided when the United States plays Brazil. Brazil matched the Americans' 3-1 record Wednesday night by beating Puerto Rico 99-71.

Record Smashed

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian record for the 11 and 12-year-old 200-yard freestyle swimming relay was broken Wednesday by four members of the suburban Etobicoke Memorial Aquatic Club. The team cut 8.8 seconds off the old record of 2.11.3 set last March, clocking in at 2.02.5.

Doug Peden

Anyone who has followed Eddie Dorohoy's spectacular trail through the Western Hockey League knows why he was tagged with the nickname of "Pistol." He can pop off on any subject within reach faster than the next-door urchin can pull the trigger on a Wyatt Earp cap-gun.

Eddie has always had a talent for talk. But he has a habit of forgetting the knack of diplomacy and his verbal outbursts have had him in more hot water during his eight previous WHL seasons more than all his shenanigans on the ice.

Since he stepped into the league with Victoria Cougars midway through the 1949-50 season, Dorohoy has commented acidly on a variety of things, including league officials, referees, rules, coaches and people who run hockey clubs.

His most-noted and most caustic phrases came near the end of last season after he had sipped from training rules the afternoon of a game at New Westminster and promptly got himself suspended by the Cougar brass.

EDDIE DOROHOY

The suspension, covering the last 12 games on the Victoria schedule, cost the Pistol a chance to finish second in the WHL scoring race, not to mention a healthy hunk of salary. Before he simmered down, Dorohoy had convinced most people that he would be quite happy if the earth opened up and swallowed the Victoria Hockey Club, lock, stock and executive.

Often overlooked in the past is the fact that Eddie is a defensive talker. His words flow fastest when he is having hockey troubles or has been hurt. When things are going well, he can be almost modest.

And things have been going well since the Pistol was traded last summer to Calgary Stampeders. He has done what was considered a virtual impossibility in the past month, making up 18 points on Seattle's slick Guyle Fielder to take over first place in the league scoring scramble.

In the process, he has set one record, is threatening another and has sparked the Stamps to a record winning streak of 15 games that has carried them to the Prairie Division lead.

But since scoring heroics are nothing new to the guy who sets an all-time WHL record for total points every time he earns another goal or assist, it was strange to hear a new, quiet Eddie Dorohoy at the other end of the long-distance line. For the first time I can remember, he didn't start answering questions before they had been completed.

Is there any special reason for the Calgary winning streak?, he was asked.

"Nothing special," said Eddie. "It's just that we have a well-balanced club and everyone's playing very well. We're not really that good, but we've had some good breaks in the last few games. And, of course, now that we're on this streak, all the players are keyed up."

Any explanation for your own scoring surge?

"I'm just having one of those years when everything goes right. The biggest reason is my wingers. Actually my goal pace is about the same as usual, but I'm getting a lot more assists because they can put the puck in the net.

"This Ron Leopold, he'll fool you. He doesn't always look good, but for a rookie, he's really clever.

Ed Doesn't Have An Axe to Grind

"And Lou Jankowski is having a great year. Every time he shoots, the puck goes in the net. He's a veteran with a couple of seasons of experience in the National Hockey League, but he never scored more than 21 goals in one season. Right now he has 27.

"What do I hope to do in Victoria Saturday? Naturally, I'd like to have a good night since I'll be playing before my friends. I have no personal grudges and don't have an axe to grind, but a fellow always tries harder against a club that has traded him away. And we expect to win."

How long do you think the winning streak will last?

"It could end anytime. I just hope it lasts through Saturday night. And I hope you have a good crowd."

If Eddie manages to collect a point in tonight's game at Vancouver, he will be in line to equal the league record of scoring one or more points in 23 successive games when the Stamps tangle with the Cougars.

Whichever way you look at it, it promises to be an interesting argument.

As long as things go right, Calgary-wise, you can expect Dorohoy to tend strictly to hockey business. But if the Stamps run into trouble, as well they might since the Cats are due to break loose again, watch out!

The Pistol could start blasting again.

Fight Fans Can Starve In Less Than 18 Months

By ERNIE FEDORUK

If Victoria's first boxing show in 18 months is any criterion, Archie Moore, the old warrior, is due for a royal welcome when he shuffles into Memorial Arena next week.

The world's light-heavyweight champion is scheduled to headline a professional fight card at the arena next Thursday in an exhibition battle with Seattle's Eddie Cotton.

And if old Arch doesn't stir the fistic followers hereabouts, nothing will.

Cauliflower alley stirred Wednesday night and, it might be said, none too gently.

An estimated 400 fans jammed the Legion auditorium so quickly Wednesday that if you didn't have your ticket early, you didn't get in. They locked the door shortly after the opening bell.

FIGHTS WERE DANDY

The appreciative leather-pushers didn't let the overflow crowd down.

From the opening bell to the final one, there wasn't a dull moment. Even the mighty mites—Ronnie Stevens and 60-pound Phillip O'Shaye—came up with a rouser. Stevens took the duke, but the little Irishman from Chemainus stole the hearts of the ensemble.

The double main event provided a fitting climax to an outstanding card. Pte. Lawrence Cardinal, a trifle out of condition but still packing the wallop that carried hiim to a Canadian army championship, shook off a few early surprises to decision lanky Al Curtis of Victoria in the first main event.

HENRY BEATEN

Joe Hegedus, a southpaw who once claimed a Hungarian amateur title, set the army back in the second main event. Hegedus, now fighting under Britainnia Legion colors, rocked George Henry, another army champ, for three rounds to earn a unanimous decision.

Indeed, the crowd was good and the fights so very interesting. So I ask you, who's been sleeping for 18 months?

Complete results:

Murray Ackerman, 74, Salt Spring, decisioned John Davis, 75, Ladysmith.

Pte. Hanspiker, PPCLI, 165, knocked out Don Reynolds, 163, Ladysmith, second round.

Vern Black, 85, Britannia Club, decisioned Steve Francy, 85, Chemainus.

Ted Ackerman, 132, Salt Spring, decisioned Ernie Falkner, 130, Britannia.

Ronnie Stevens, 62, Britannia, decisioned Phillip O'Shaye, 60, Chemainus.

Bruce Bailey, 112, Chemainus, decisioned Tommy Black, 110, Britannia.

Lawrence Cardinal, 161, PPCLI, decisioned Al Curtis, 165, Britannia.

MACHINES TAKE OVER

Pin Boys Become Vanishing Race

TORONTO (CP) — The familiar face of the pin boy may soon disappear from Canadian bowling alleys.

Announcement Wednesday of development in Canada of the world's first automatic five-pin setting machine may be the answer to the pin boy problem of Canadian bowling alley proprietors.

The announcement was made jointly by D. C. F. van Eendenburg, president of Phillips Electronics Industries Limited, maker of the machine, and Harry Hertzman, president of Automatic Pinsetters Limited.

The machine, designed for use on Canada's bowling lanes where the five-pin game is popular, took three years to develop. It is a counterpart of the automatic 10-pin setting machine now widely used in the United States.

Ten of the machines now are in use in two Toronto bowling alleys. They are operated by push buttons controlled by the players and scorer. Between shots each player presses a button near the ball rack to clear the alley of dead pins and reset the standing ones for his next ball.

When the scoring stand button is pressed, the machine returns the ball and sets up new pins for the next player. The whole process takes seven seconds.

Machines operating in Toronto have cut 20 minutes from the time usually taken to play three league games. Each machine uses between 10 and 12 cents worth of electricity a day.

Vics' Rugby Record: One Win, One Trophy

Victoria High School, battling a strong Victoria College squad at Vic High Wednesday, chose a most opportune moment to score their first win of the season. The Vics blanked the Vikings, 3-0, to win the Kiwanis Cup.

Played for periodically since 1932, the cup has graced the college halls with monotonous regularity.

"It was the best game I've seen Vic High play for years," said the Vics' coach, Jim Hill, proudly; "I've never seen the team so determined."

Hero of the day was Bill Gower, Vic High standout who chalked up the only points of the game with a 25-yard field goal in the second half.

This sudden show of power by the Vics throws a completely new light on the Howard Russel Cup playoffs, slated for the end of February or early March between Vic High and Oak Bay High.

In other rugby action Wednesday, Oak Bay High suffered a double defeat at the hands of Shawnigan Lake, their first team dropping a 14-6 verdict at Carnarvon Park and the second XV taking an 14-6 beating at Windsor Park.

Dave Spearheads Capital Shutout

David Woodley scored two goals Wednesday night at Memorial Arena to lead Capitals to a 3-0 win over Royals, stretching their first-place lead to nine points.

The third goal in the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association bantam division game was scored by Bruce Sanson.

Nanaimo Tests Seniors' Brand

NANAIMO — A decision as to whether Nanaimo will enter a senior "A" basketball team in intercity league action could well hinge on the attendance at Friday's exhibition game between Alberni Athletics and Vancouver C-Fun.

The two teams will meet in the Franklin St. School gym, with an accommodation capacity of around 250.

If the game proves successful, an investigation is expected to be made regarding the availability of Nanaimo Civic Ice Arena for further games against top-notch teams.

TOKYO—Isami Ikeyama, Japan, outpointed Keijiro Kazama, Japan, 10. Flyweights.

Shamrocks Hosts For Shrine Game

The annual Shrine game between Victoria Shamrocks and Nanaimo of the Intercity Lacrosse League will be played in Victoria's Memorial Arena Saturday, May 2.

This was made known at a special meeting of club and Shrine officials in Nanaimo Wednesday afternoon.

"It will be the finest ever staged," said Shrine lacrosse committee chairman Bill Andrews of Victoria.

Plans are already under way for a pre-game parade that will include bands from New Westminster, Nanaimo and Victoria.

A special door prize will be one of the features of the gala night.

Attending the meeting were Nanaimo Shrine president Bert Tannick, secretary Bert Janes, Nanaimo lacrosse manager Rev. John Snowden, Victoria Shrine band president Norm Copley, Andrews, and trophy donor Bill McKinty.

TRIPLEHEADER FRIDAY

Difference Between 'B' and 'C' Not Much

Victoria's two senior "B" basketball teams scored narrow exhibition victories Wednesday night against Saanich Suburban League senior "C" rivals at Central Junior High gym.

Half Way House came from behind to nip Sidney 49-47, on Gary Taylor's 16-point effort, and Farmer Construction edged Brentwood 41-37.

Ron Hunter set the Farmer pace with 18 points, high for the night's activity.

Victoria Basketball Commission action Friday will be highlighted by the first of the city junior men's playoffs between Victoria College and Navy at Central Junior High, sarting at 7.30 p.m.

Preliminary to the playoff game will be a junior women's match between Vicettes and Victoria College starting at 6, with UBC Jayvees meeting Vikings at 9.45 p.m.

ESQUIMALT VS. HEANEY'S IN PROVINCE CUP OPENER

Gorge Gang is One to Watch

Now that the first-round draw for the Province Cup soccer battles has been made, city fitba addicts might heed this warning:

Watch out for that Gorge gang!

They're starting to move in the same, snappy fashion that enabled them to clean up most of the laurels in Victoria and District Football League play last season.

With standout efforts by their defence paving the way, the Gorge Hotel crew has moved from eight place to second in the regular league table. They've won five straight, allowing an average of only one goal in their last six games, to move into the higher brackets.

The Gorge crew won't taste Province Cup action until Feb. 14, when they meet Brodies, but it's a cinch they'll bear watching. It's just as certain that they'll be listed among the four teams that will take part in league playoffs early in spring.

The lower Island zone eliminations start this Saturday when the Red Metcalfe-managed Esquimalt eleven, Jackson Cup winners two years ago, face Heaney's at Royal Athletic Park.

The balance of the first-round draw is:

Feb. 7—Tillicums vs. Scottish.

Feb. 14—Brodies vs. Gorge.

Feb. 21—Kickers vs. Ladysmith.

Other league teams will confine their outings this weekend to league matches. Butlers will face Kickers at Heywood Avenue Park, Scottish and Tillicums will tangle at Central Park, and Gorge plays Brodies at Topaz Avenue Park on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Rangers Drop Back Into Third As Chicago Carves Out 3-1 Win

(From CP and UPI Reports)

The uncanny ability of Ted Lindsay and Ed Litzenberger to beat goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley of the New York Rangers is responsible today for Chicago Black Hawks' sole occupancy of second place in the National Hockey League.

Lindsay and Litzenberger each beat Worsley for the sixth time this season Wednesday night as the Hawks took over second place by beating Rangers, 3-1, at Madison Square Garden.

Andy Bathgate helped set up New York's only goal and the assist, his 32nd this season, brought his points total to 57, one fewer than the total of Bernie Geoffrion, whose Montreal Canadiens host Detroit Red Wings tonight.

The Hawks, after four winless games, got two-point efforts out of four veteran stars to earn their 19th win of the season. Lizenberger, Lindsay and defenceman Pierre Pilote each scored a goal and got one assist. Tod Sloan got two assists.

HENRY SCORES

New York's 1-0 lead, earned in the first period when little Camille Henry connected off passes from Bathgate and Dean Prentice, was wiped out in the second when Pilote swiped in a low 20-footer.

Detroit will go along with either Terry Sawchuk or Bobby Perreault in the nets tonight. Sawchuk has a shoulder sprain and would have to wear special padding.

Canadiens have already proven what they can do against Perreault, who had allowed only two goals in the first NHL game and got a shutout in his second. When he met Montreal next, he was slaughtered as Detroit lost 7-2.

Track Operators Seeking New Deal

Proposals by race track operators to reclaim control of the track bonus now paid to horsemen and to redistribute the money on graded handicaps are expected to be presented this week to the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association at Vancouver.

The proposals are expected to be put forward by the B.C. Turf and Country Club from Lansdowne Park and Ascot Jockey Club from Exhibition Park, both Vancouver race tracks.

The track bonus, which amounted last year to $45,220 at Exhibition Park and $35,245 at Lansdowne, is calculated on the total mutuel play in 1951. Each year, horsemen share in a percentage above the 1951 total under a HBPA agreement with track operators.

The operators propose this year to increase minimum purses and improve handicap and stake purses, rather than pay a bonus on every race.

F.A. CUP PLAY

Arsenal Power Halts Colchester

LONDON (Reuters)—Arsenal, held to a tie by Third-Division Colchester United in the English Football Association cup Saturday, whipped its lowly opponents 4-0 in the fourth-round replay Wednesday night.

Accrington Stanley was beaten 4-1 in another replay at Portsmouth and now only Norwich City remains to represent the Third Division in the fifth round Feb. 14.

Colchester went out tamely, outclassed and outmanoeuvred by Arsenal. The London club, leading the First Division, monopolized the game and only brilliant goalkeeping by Percy Ames for Colchester kept the score down.

Everton, host to Charlton Athletic before a crowd of 74,482, was held to 1-1 at full time. In overtime Everton rammed in three goals to win.

Friday Busy Evening For Suburban Squads

Sidney's senior "C" men's basketball squad, strengthening claims as the team to beat for provincial honors with each and every outing, will face Cumberland in an exhibition game at North Saanich High School gymnasium Friday night.

A preliminary contest will open the basketball doubleheader at 7.30.

Sidney added to its impressive record Tuesday by thumping Sooke 77-44 behind John Devlin's 26-point display. Jake Jacobson added 20 points for the winners while Gordie Eve was the pick of Sooke players with 18 points.

Basketball fare will also be on the menu at Brentwood Friday. The Saanich Suburban League tripleheader will start at 7.30.

Two of the games, between Brentwood and Sooke's pre-midget and midget boys' teams, will be the first of a two-game, total-point playoff series. The windup encounter, starting at 9.30, will be a juvenile boys' meeting between St. Louis College and Brentwood.

Buttons On Line At Uplands Club

Al MacLeod and Ron Cush of Gorge Vale are the next challengers for the Victoria District Golf Association's Open buttons being held by Colwood's Vince Clarkson and Joe Evans.

The button battle will be held at Uplands Sunday, starting at 12.30.

Noel and Dale Dalziel, Uplands' brother act, will defend the junior button at the same time when they face Dick Munn and Kerry Greenwood of Cedar Hill.

LOMBARDI MAY PROVIDE TONIC FOR GREEN BAY

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi, daring, imaginative offensive coach of the New York Giants for the last five seasons, Wednesday became head coach and general manager of the slump-ridden Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

It is Lombardi's first head coaching assignment above the high school level.

The 45-year-old Jerseyan, who will arrive here Monday to work out details of his contract, succeeds Ray (Scooter) McLean as head coach and Verne Lewellen as general manager.

21 Years Enough, Pep Hangs 'Em Up

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Former featherweight champion Willie Pep, who lost only 10 fights in a 300-bout career spanning 21 years, said Wednesday night he's through with boxing.

The announcement by the Hartford Will-O'-the-Wisp, one of boxing's all-time greats, thus ended one of the most remarkable careers in ring history.

It came a few days after Pep, twice world featherweight champion, lost a decision in Caracas, Venezuela, to Sonny Leon. It was Pep's first fight since he was beaten by featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey in a non-title fight in Boston last year.

"There'll be no comebacks," he said. "I'm hanging up the gloves for good."

STARTED WITH BANG

Pep, who began his career in 1938 at the age of 15, had 65 fights as an amateur, then won his first 65 as a professional—a record that still stands. After his first loss, he went on to win 73 straight bouts.

Pep won his first title Nov. 20, 1942, from Chalky Wright and held it eight years until he met the man who was to prove his nemesis, Sandy Saddler. Saddler knocked Pep out in four rounds in October, 1948, Pep in turn decisioned Saddler to regain his crown, but the lanky Harlem scrapper knocked him out the following year to end his days as a champion.

Since then, Pep has travelled the country, taking on all comers, hoping for another shot at the title. In all, the Hartford boxing master won 224 fights, lost 10 and drew once.

Trade Minister Optimistic on B.C. Economy

An optimistic forecast for the economy of British Columbia was presented in the B.C. legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Speaking entirely in his capacity as minister of industrial development, trade and industry, he promised he would discuss the attorney-general's department during the budget debate.

This would permit questioning and he felt opposition members might have questions regarding the Sons of Freedom, for instance.

His grin indicated he expected other questions also—but he did not mention his handling of the Sommers case.

His speech was preceded by a warning from Speaker Hugh Shantz that the heated debate Tuesday had brought comment from the floor in language something less than parliamentary. The attorney-general's remarks contained no insults.

He presented figures on unemployment which differed from those supplied by the CCF Tuesday. He said there were 47,000 seeking work in B.C. in December. Arthur Turner (CCF—Vancouver East) had placed the total at 68,000.

EMPLOYMENT UP

Mr. Bonner said, "on the brighter side" there were 15,000 more people employed in B.C. than a year previously.

"During 1958, the best months saw more than 5 per cent of our labor force unemployed, and 10.5 per cent during our worst period." The national jobless total in December was 440,000 — highest in postwar years, 7.2 per cent of the working force.

In the United States in December 6.3 per cent of the work force was unemployed while the figure in Britain was only 2 per cent. "Clearly we have something to learn from them."

The minister said he felt time was overdue for reconvening of a dominion-provincial conference held in 1957 on the employment question. But at the federal level at this time "There are no such plans."

Speaking on freight rates the attorney-general said there was no inconsistency in the British Columbia government first opposing a rate boost and then declaring the boost in effect on the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

KEPT 'IN BLACK'

"Doubtless the PGE would be criticized and the government too if it failed to keep its operation in the black," or if it did not pay national railway brotherhood rates to its employees. He added that on the PGE, 95 per cent of any rate increase is beyond the control of the railway and is decided by national railways or changes in American rates.

Mr. Bonner quoted from his recently issued summary of business activities in his submission of encouraging industrial expansion.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

"Since 1955, the investment for capital purposes in British Columbia has not been below the $1,000,000,000 — a sizeable expression of confidence in the people of British Columbia and the resources at their disposal."

He felt major forestry operations would invest a little more in 1959 than last year and housing is expected to remain at the current boom level.

"The prospects for resource-based industries appear very favorable from the vantage point of the first quarter of 1959. Already the recent development of our petroleum and gas resources has provided a strong impetus for capital projects . . . for 1959, surveys of my department show that investment levels should significantly exceed those of 1958, especially in the petroleum field."

NEW USE for old railroad tank car was found by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. mechanics, at Chemainus. Shortened, shorn of wheels, and patched, it now stores 6,500 gallons of fuel oil at sawmill powerhouse. BUT PEAK REACHED

Sharp Increase In Unemployed

DUNCAN—The Unemployment Insurance Commission office reported a sharp rise in the number of unplaced male applicants for jobs during January.

Up to Friday of last week there were 1,208 men and 191 women registered. However, this is well below the total at this same date a year ago when there were 1,790 men and 147 women registered.

The mild weather and favorable market conditions in the lumbering industry are the reasons given for the lower jobless total this year.

The hard core of unplaced applicants is made up mostly of skilled tradesmen and laborers in the construction industry who have been unemployed for many months, and continue in the "live files" with little hope of immediate employment, according to R. S. Robinson, manager of the local UIC office.

Two logging operations, which were closed last year, continued to work during the period reviewed, but a recent snowfall closed three operations that had re-opened. However one of these is returning to work immediately.

With continued favorable weather, those workers affected by seasonal layoffs should have some relief, as it appears that the unemployment peak has been reached and now is declining.

The number of unplaced female applicants is at its highest point for the year, mainly because married women are seeking to augment the family income or replace income lost to the family through the husband's unemployment.

Mrs. Van Ek Funeral Held At Sooke

SOOKE—Funeral services were held at Knox Presbyterian Church here Wednesday for Mrs. Kathleen Donia Van Ek, 20, who died in hospital Sunday after a lengthy illness.

Born in Sooke, and member of a pioneer family here, she sang in the church choir and taught Sunday school prior to her illness.

Surviving are the husband, John; parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Welsh, Kangaroo Road; a sister, Jacqueline, and a brother, James, at home; and grandmother, Mrs. Emma Welsh, also at the family residence.

Burial was in the churchyard cemetery.

Car Death Blamed On Carbon Monoxide

NANAIMO—An inquest opened Wednesday night into the death of Mrs. Jean Morrell, 39, found dead Wednesday in her car on a B.C. Power Commission service road at Westwood Lake, one mile from her home.

It was closed after identification, and date for re-opening has not been set.

Police said there was no evidence of foul play in connection with the death, and that carbon monoxide poisoning might have been responsible.

Mrs. Morrell was last seen Monday night when she left her home to attend a night school class. The car was found Wednesday by her husband, William Morrell, a contractor, who chartered an aircraft to search the area.

Other survivors are two children, Warren, 13, and Jean, five.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1959 19

H-Bomb on Victoria 'Not Worth Waste' Says Civil Defence

Possibility of a five-megaton bomb being "wasted" on Victoria in the event of nuclear warfare is remote, B.C.'s civil defence co-ordinator, Brig. G. A. McCarter said today.

"We don't think this would happen," he told 34 sanitary inspectors from throughout the province attending a CD orientation course.

"Would you waste a five-megaton bomb on Victoria?" he asked rhetorically.

"The most danger, as we see it, to Victoria, would probably be launching of a missile from out at sea."

If the B.C. capital were moved to the mainland—as suggested by Attorney General Robert Bonner—in the case of atomic attack, civil defence headquarters control here would follow, Brig. McCarter said.

"We don't have to stay in any one control centre."

The brigadier made his remarks at the first CD course for "sanitators" ever held in Canada. It ends today after a week of lectures and study.

Dr. Gordon Fryer, medical consultant for federal CD services, admitted that because of "vacillation" in federal CD policies, "medical co-operation has not been as great as it could have been."

FIRST AID READY

However, of Canada's 17,000 doctors, 730 have attended special courses at the National Defence College, Arnprior, Ont.; and are now in a position to "fit in" if national disaster struck.

There are 52,000 civil defence-trained nurses in Canada; pharmacists are "well organized" and have taken CD courses at the university level with emphasis on handling emergency medical supplies; dentists would be invaluable in the blood services and, in the event of great pressure, in operative work due to knowledge of anatomy.

Major role of the nation's veterinarians would be protection and control of the "food chain."

On the possibility of duplication of services by CD, the Red Cross and St. John Ambulance, he said main CD emphasis was on the national level, not local.

"Large magnitude disaster, whether in peace or war, must be a federal responsibility," due to the costs involved.

He referred to the Red Cross as an "administrative bulkhead" that has not the resources to stand up to a widespread disaster.

ADVANCE GUARD

It is an "advance guard", and when its resources are no longer sufficient "then they become a part of the CD organization".

This applied also to the militia and other organizations, he said.

The federal plan, said Dr. Fryer, is to move vital medical supplies from present to "more strategic locations" in the event of war.

As the situation now exists, these supplies are in or close to fall-out areas.

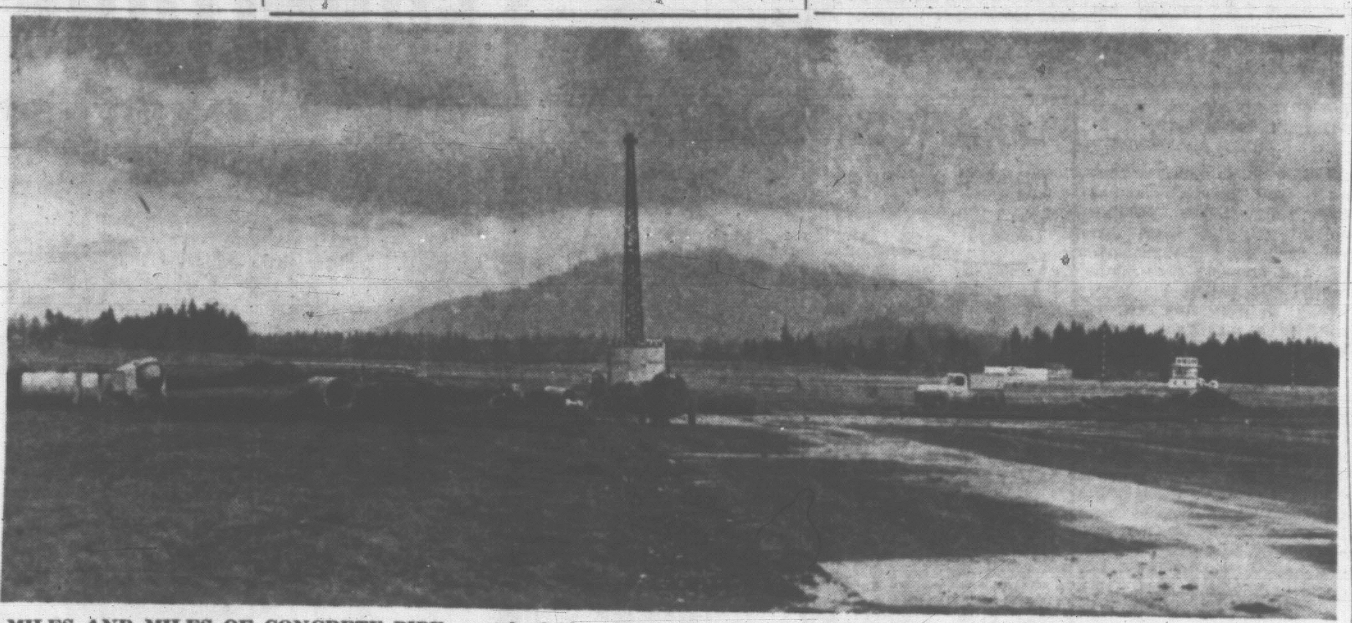
SIDNEY, KEATING EXCHANGES GET DIAL PHONES MARCH 2

Sidney and Keating telephone systems will switch over to dial operation March 2, B.C. Telephone Co. announced today.

The switchover will be made early in the morning and will take only a matter of seconds.

When the automatic systems go into operation, there will be free calling between Sidney, Keating and Greater Victoria.



MILES AND MILES OF CONCRETE PIPE must be laid under Patricia Bay Airport before new runway surface can be laid. Just as important as backhoes that dig trenches, and cranes that lift concrete pipe into place, are humble pumps which keep working space dry and ensure solid bed for new drains. Soil is wet, and pumps run steadily in all excavations.—(Times photo.)

8 Escape as Fire Flares in Home

Six adults and two children escaped from a Belmont Avenue home shortly after 9.30 p.m. Wednesday in a fire which caused at least $2,000 damage to basement and house walls.

LS Lionel Stephenson, 2311 Belmont, smelled smoke while he was in the kitchen, looked down basement stairs and "saw a cloud of smoke and a bunch of burning clothes."

In the upstairs suite were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Conarroe visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Yarmie.

Mrs. Stephenson pushed her three-week-old baby into Mrs. Yarmie's arms and said "the house is on fire!

Mrs. Yarmie in turn handed the baby to her mother who carried it to safety. Mrs. Stephenson returned to her own suite to help her husband to save their other child, Paul, aged three.

Owner of the house, Archie Willock, 3140 Cedar Hill, said he had cleaned the pipes of the coal and wood furnace five hours before the fire started.

A fire department spokesman said cause of the blaze was believed to be defective electrical wiring. This was still under investigation.

Conference Asked on 'Rights' Bill

Oak Bay Liberal MLA P. A. Gibbs will ask the B.C. Legislature to arrange a federal-provincial conference to discuss necessary changes in provincial legislation to give a nation bill of rights full effect.

The federal government has introduced a measure to preserve human rights and the provinces would require parallel legislation, the member said in a motion filed today.

There is no way of knowing when the motion might come before the Legislature.

Mr. Gibbs said their are several phases of a national bill of rights which may step into provincial rights—especially in the field of labor.

"There should be some co-ordination of all our law to accord with what the federal house brings down." He suggested the proposed national conference could be attended by premiers and attorneys-general.

He felt a further important feature is freedom of the press, which could vary in some provinces.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Eileen Agnes Evans, 1392 Rockland, $50 for driving while under suspension.

'Siren-Deaf' Motorist Faces Charge

A city motorist was to be charged with failing to heed an emergency vehicle siren following crash of a fire truck into a parked car at Hillside and Graham shortly before 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the fire truck, being driven to an apartment blaze by Gordon C. Smith, 2969 Cedar Hill, slowed down and veered to the right to miss a car pulling away from a stop sign on Graham.

The fire truck was in collision with a car parked about 75 feet east of Graham on the south side of Hillside. There was no damage to the parked car and only slight damage to the fire truck.

BIKE POLICE GET CRASH HATS

Victoria motrocycle policemen are slated to don crash helmets this year.

Contract Let On $42,000 Home for Old

Weismiller Construction Co. has been awarded the contract for construction of the first unit of six apartments for senior citizens, the Gorge View Society announced today.

The company tendered a $42,000 bid for the project and indicated it could start construction almost immediately.

Plans call for ultimate construction of some 40 buildings at an estimated cost of $500,000 on the society's five-acre site on the Gorge near Harriet.

The first unit will provide low-rent accommodation for two married couples and four single pensioners. Its construction will be supervised by Prof. Neil Swainson, chairman of the society's building committee, and former Ald. Ed Williams, superintendent of building.

The society, sponsored by the United Church of Canada, plans to devote about 60 per cent of the complete development to accommodation for single persons.

Storms Sending Wet Weather

Storms striking along the coast of Washington will result in showers to go with Victoria's current spring-like weather.

Official forecast calls for showers late today, partial clearing overnight.

Work Starts On Airport Face-Lifting

Work has started on the giant runway rebuilding job at Patricia Bay Airport to be done by Perini Pacific Ltd., on a contract of $921,779.

Initial chore is the replacing of wooden drains installed under the airport when it was first built 18 years ago. A subcontractor, G. W. Ledingham & Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, is busy tearing out the old drains and replacing them with concrete.

While the drainage program is proceeding, the prime contractor is accumulating equipment ready for the job of resurfacing the 5,000-foot east-west runway with blacktop.

A machinery yard at the airport is being rapidly filled with trucks, cranes, and other mobile equipment, ready for a start early in March.

New machinery is being moved into the Deeks-McBride gravel pit at Mill Bay, which will provide the 175,000 tons required for the job. It will be ferried across Saanich Inlet to Patricia Bay, where it will be stockpiled at the west end of the airport property.

Value of the machinery to be used on the job is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Completion date for the project is Aug. 30.

'Package Plan' Urged For Social Security

Welfare Official Sees Big Saving

By JOHN MIKA

The confusing multiplicity of social security programs in Canada should be tied up in one manageable package, a top welfare official from Ottawa said here today.

Norman Cragg, executive secretary of the public welfare division of the Canadian Welfare Council, said in an interview that more value could be wrung out of the welfare dollar if a 22-point program proposed by CWC were adopted.

NORMAN CRAGG
. . . get together

Mr. Cragg was to explain the program today to a meeting in Spencerhouse of representatives from business, labor, government, church and welfare groups.

Sponsored by the Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council, the meeting was to discuss a brief presented by CWC to the federal and provincial governments last fall.

"We feel this is one of the most important documents ever presented on social security in Canada, not only for what it says but because it was developed after thorough study by persons interested in welfare across the nation," Mr. Cragg said.

Chief recommendation of the brief is establishment of a royal commission to study for the first time the whole field of social security and bring in recommendations on the methods that it could be integrated.

"We're concerned with the fact that there are many programs in existence, some federal, some provincial and some municipal, without any clear or consistent pattern," he said.

Costs Shared on Sliding Scale

"All this has grown up by bits and pieces and we feel it is time that the whole field should be integrated and consolidated."

The brief proposes an overall public assistance act which would be administered by the provinces with the cost shared by the federal government on a sliding scale based on economic conditions, so that provinces and municipalities are not over-burdened during recession periods.

"This would save administrative costs and provide assistance more effectively without increasing the total welfare expenditures," Mr. Cragg said.

The brief also urges a shift in emphasis in the basis of assistance programs.

"Up until now, the cause of the need for assistance—unemployment and old age for example—has been the basis for determining assistance.

"We would like to see programs established where the fact of need alone determines assistance," he said.

The brief is divided into three sections dealing with old age pensions, public assistance and unemployment insurance.

Wider Benefits for Unemployed

The council has asked for retention of the present old age pension with a thorough study to be given by a joint parliamentary committee on a compulsory program of contributing towards retirement pensions similar to the one in the United States, which is now under study by Canada.

Consolidation of all the public assistance programs would bring improvement in the second area, the brief says.

"As for unemployment insurance, we feel that more people should be brought into the UIC system. At present it covers only 82 per cent of the working population," Mr. Cragg said.

"We also feel that the ratio of benefits to earnings should be increased from its present range of 30 to 55 per cent, possibly to about two-thirds, as it is in the U.S. This should be given careful study.

"If a man goes into the hole too far when he is unemployed then it is harder for him to get back on his feet when he does land a job,'" said Mr. Cragg. "The present benefits often are insufficient for an unemployed worker to meet his essential day-to-day cost of living."

Emphasis on Preserving Initiative

Mr. Cragg said the National Employment Service should be increased with better qualified staff, especially in the department that tries to find jobs for older workers or the disabled.

"The whole emphasis in our brief is to develop employment, rehabilitation and vocational training policies to the point where they will bring employment to as many people as possible," he said.

"Failing employment, we feel the federal government has a responsibility for maintenance of those persons but the emphasis should be placed on preserving the initiative and the individual integrity of the person.

"We don't want to create dependency, we want to eliminate it."

The Canadian Welfare Council is a national organization of public and private welfare agencies, governments, professional workers and volunteers and a variety of community organizations. It has a reciprocal membership in the Greater Victoria Community Chest.

Esquimalt Frigates 'Swarm' In Juan de Fuca Next Week

The largest group of Pacific Command frigates ever to take part in a single exercise will steam down Juan de Fuca Strait next week after a rendezvous in the Pacific approaches.

Seven of the eight ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will be involved.

Four of them are returning from a cadet training cruise in the Hawaiian area. They are HMC Ships Sussexvale, Stettler, Antigonish and Beacon Hill.

One, HMCS Jonquiere, is now on pilotage and coastal navigation exercises in the Prince Rupert area.

The other two, HMC Ships New Glasgow and New Waterford, have been on anti-submarine warfare (ASW) exercises in local waters. They will return to Esquimalt Friday morning, leave again at 8.30 a.m. Saturday, and rendezvous with Jonquiere over the weekend.

New Glasgow, New Waterford, and Jonquiere will meet the remaining four ships Tuesday, and squadron exercises will be carried out on the run home

The seven frigates will arrive at Esquimalt 10 a.m. Friday, Feb. 6.

Only ship of the Second not taking part is HMCS Ste. Therese, commissioned last Saturday after extensive refit, and now undergoing post-refit trials.

Woman Freed in Stabbing In Downtown Hotel Room

A Victoria woman charged with wounding a man with whom she lived was freed in city police court today when the victim said he had stabbed himself accidentally.

Elizabeth M. McLellan, New England Hotel, was charged with causing bodily harm by wounding Robert Henry Jones in their hotel room last Thursday.

Police laid the charge after investigating the incident, which followed a drinking session. Jones was the Crown's principle witness.

Magistrate William Ostler said he did not believe Jones' story given in the witness stand.

"The evidence you have given is certainly beyond the credulity of any reasonable man," he said, and turning to the accused he added:

"You are probably getting a break you don't deserve."

Jones said he and the accused had been drinking at two hotels and returned to their own room with bottles of liquor and wine.

He said the accused was cutting up some chicken with a knife when she told him she was going back to one of the hotels.

"I said you're not going anywhere. You've had enough," Jones told the court.

"She came upon me with the knife in her hand and said she would go where she liked."

The two then jostled against each other.

"I didn't realize I had been cut. I didn't realize until the next morning that I had been cut. It was purely accidental on my part."

"You state then that you stabbed yourself?" prosecutor T. P. O'Grady asked.

"Yes," Jones replied.

HOSPITALIZED

Police had taken Jones to hospital where he was detained two days.

Mr. O'Grady said the statement taken from Jones after the incident was equivocal with his testimony, in view of which he neither wished to ask that the witness be declared hostile nor to proceed further.

Teaches on Bleak Island Off Labrador

Mrs. Edna Sinclair, former school teacher on Salt Spring and Saturna Islands, described her present home and work on a bleak island off the Labrador coast, in a letter read at meeting of Sunshine Guild, Ganges.

The school is carried on under most primitive conditions, Mrs. Sinclair writes, with lack of commonest sanitary needs. Pupils, in Grades 1 to 12, all eager to learn, are hindered by lack of textbooks.

Besides school work, Mrs. Sinclair is empowered by the Anglican Church to conduct church services, baptisms and funerals.

Only source of transportation to and from the island for six months of the year is by plane.

Mrs. F. Newnham presided at the meeting held in United Church hall. Mrs. W. Byers reported on visits to the nursing home at Ganges. She was also the tea hostess.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Guilty, as Charged!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine called me up and said, "If you promise not to tell anyone, I will tell you something about So and So." Naturally I promised and she told me. The next day another friend called me up and told me the very same thing thing about this Mr. So and So but she said, "Everybody knows it so I don't care if you repeat it." Now, please understand, Abby, when I repeated what I had heard I did not feel that I was letting the cat out of the bag or that I had broken my promise but I got into the biggest fight over this that I cannot sleep nights. Was I wrong or was I not?

SICK AT HEART

DEAR SICK: When anyone offers you "gossip" about a third party if you "promise not to tell"—tell them that you don't want the responsibility of knowing such confidential information. You were wrong in repeating gossip, whether it was "out of the bag" or not.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have a new girl in our office who comes to work dressed like she was going to a square dance. She wears scoop-necked blouses and flared skirts with three and four stiff petticoats. I can't see outfits like that for a place of business. I would like to see this published together with your answer.

BUSINESS WOMAN

DEAR BUSINESS: "New girls" in an office frequently overdress at first in an effort to make a good impression. Give her a little time to observe how the rest of the office girls dress. If she doesn't "catch on" tip her off in a friendly way.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We are married and have one child. My husband is a checker in a grocery store and he is the friendly type with a real good disposition, but everywhere we go I catch him smiling at girls. If I smiled at men the way he smiles at girls, believe me, I would have a few teeth missing. When I ask him to quit smiling at girls he says he didn't even know he was smiling. But I notice they smile back at him. (Does he think they are smiling at him for nothing?) Please tell me if I am being silly for my complaint?

NOT SMILING

DEAR NOT: A smile need not always be a signal for "encouragement"—but merely a pleasant expression. Let him smile.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 13. I am starting to go out on dates. When I come home my mother wants to know what happened. I tell her and by the next morning it is spread all around the neighborhood. I have asked her time and again not to tell anyone but she keeps doing it. I can't say I don't want to tell her anything any more. What should I do?

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Your mother doesn't realize that she is violating a very sacred trust. Ask her to PROMISE she'll keep your secrets, and tell her if she doesn't keep her promises you'll keep your secrets—to yourself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UNPOPULAR": A smile is a curve that can set a lot of things straight. Try it!

Need for Volunteer Hospital Workers Great

Finest examples of charity to be found today are in work done by volunteers in hospitals.

This was stated by Dr. E. N. Boettcher, chairman of medical advisory committee of Gorge Road Hospital, Wednesday evening at the annual meeting of the hospital's auxiliary.

He explained: "Volunteer aid is the giving of oneself to the patient. To do this the worker must have a sincere love for mankind which is so necessary in the recovery of the afflicted. The need is great for this type of volunteer."

Dr. Boettcher spoke of long-term plans now being discussed by the board for the eventual building of a new wing, expansion of the occupational and physiotherapy departments, establishment of convalescent and rehabilitation care for the injured and chronically ill patients and general nursing care and "out-patient" care for those patients who could carry on in their homes.

He was introduced by Mrs. E. R. Owen and thanked by Mrs. J. Naysmith.

MANY PROJECTS

Mrs. R. G. Aitken presided and in her annual report announced fund-raising projects during the year as open house, linen shower, garden party, home cooking, tag day, two rummage sales and a miniature bazaar.

Wheel chair was purchased for the occupational therapy room; four dozen pairs of pyjamas were bought for men patients and $265 was donated to the hospital for bed pads.

Receipts for the year amounted to $6,062.82. Disbursements included $1,163.94 to the occupational therapy department; $593.64 for hospital furnishings. Bank balance is $2,264.79.

Other reports were given by Mrs. S. Smith, visits to patients; Mrs. M. Curtis, mobile cart; Mrs. N. Douglas, sale of hand lotion and cards. Sewing committee headed by Mrs. P. J. Woolley and Mrs. A. Hamilton gave 165 volunteer hours to handle hospital mending.

Mrs. C. C. Warren, chairman of the hospital's board of directors, installed the officers who include Mrs. Aitken, re-elected president; Mrs. Owen, vice-president; Mrs. W. McGregor, recording secretary; Mrs. Naysmith, corresponding; Mrs. G. F. Hilliard, treasurer; Mrs. E. Munroe, Mrs. S. Smith, one-year directors; Mrs. C. Coleman, Mrs. F. Campbell, two-year directors.

Over 60,000 Dressings Made By Hospital Auxiliary in Year

Preparation and wrapping of dressings, which releases a nurse for more intricate work in this department of the Royal Jubilee Hospital is only one of many worthwhile projects undertaken by the women's auxiliary to the hospital in the past year.

Another was the providing of special nurses for the very ill, who needed extra care and were unable to pay for it.

The report of the bandage and dressings committee, given by Mrs. F. Loveday, at the annual meeting of the auxiliary in the nurses' residence, on Wednesday afternoon, showed 60,301 dressings prepared. This necessitated 1,000 hours of work by her committee over the year.

Mrs. P. E. Corby presided.

The secretary, Mrs. H. G. Southin, showed main money-making events as bridge tea, garden party and food fair, raffle and a tag day.

Twenty over-bed tables and 50 Florence Nightingale lamps were purchased; donations were made to the children's ward auxiliary, student nurses' association, hospital employees' association and the annual $400 Lena Mitchell bursary was presented.

A sum of $5,009.80 has been placed in a special fund to provide furnishings when the new hospital wing is completed.

Mrs. R. Hopkins, in her treasurer's report, showed receipts of $4,919.24. Mrs. F. Lees announced 67 active and 94 associate members in the group.

Other reports were given by Mrs. Pinhorn, correspondence; Mrs. E. Shears, sewing; Mrs. V. Price, buying; Mrs. A. Masters, sick; Mrs. D. C. F. MacArthur, sale of used stamps; Mrs. W. G. Ellis, press; Mrs. W. E. Speed, new hospital; Mrs. L. G. Barlow, telephone.

New officers are: Mrs. Speed, president; Mrs. Price, first vice-president; Mrs. MacArthur, second; Mrs. Southin, recording secretary; Mrs. Lee, treasurer; Mrs. P. R. Brown, corresponding secretary; nominating committee chairman, Mrs. W. R. Jeffs.

Miss Flora Burns, vice-president of Victoria Branch of the British Columbia Historical Society, gave a brief resume of the work of the Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital since it was first formed as a "committee of ladies" to assist the board 66 years ago.

In the 66 years Miss Burns said the auxiliary had raised the sum of $258,593.19.

Urge Women to Exercise Vote; Help Revamp Laws

TORONTO (CP) — Women should take more part in public affairs, a survey conducted by the Young Women's Association of Canada indicates.

More than 900 women across Canada, members of the YWCA, were polled on the question.

Nearly all of them said women should exercise their right to vote, and 84 per cent said that women should do more than vote—they should stand for public office and revamp outmoded social legislation, particularly affecting women, such as divorce laws.

But three-quarters of those replying said women are not more active because they do not know enough about public life. Half of the women polled said that becoming informed takes too much time, 23 per cent said women "couldn't care less," 19 per cent that public affairs are for men, and 15 per cent that there is prejudice against women in public life.

They said interest can be stimulated by education, travel, radio, television and reading, and home influence also plays a part. Belonging to service clubs and similar organizations also promoted interest.

Asked "Do you approve of married women working for pay outside their homes?" 55 per cent approved, 43 per cent opposed the idea. Those against qualified their disapproval like this: 54 per cent approved if there were no children, 30 per cent approved if the women had special training, and 88 per cent approved if money was needed for the family.

Here's a couple of French beach shorties that ought to rate some long looks on the Riviera this summer. The provocative chemises were in the spring-summer collection by Brigitte of Cannes. That back view is printed cotton with red dots on white. The multi-colored print design at right is another eye-catcher. (AP Wirephoto.)

Women who wear neck scarves often must sort through them in a drawer. Keep them neater and make it easier to select by hanging them in the closet. Mount a strip of foam plastic on a closet wall or door. Then pin scarves from one corner onto it.

BRIDE'S PARENTS PAY WEDDING EXPENSES

Our son is being married and the girl's parents want us to help them out with the reception expense.

Louise

We agreed to pay for part of the refreshments, but now they want us to pay for the orchestra too. They say that it is our son's wedding too, so we should be willing to pay.

We have a teen-age daughter to think of. Our son has one more year of college and I'd rather spend the money on something more useful for him, if I possibly can. What can we tell the parents without hurting their feelings?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

I hope you will put your foot down in paying for the orchestra. You shouldn't pay anything, even for the refreshments.

The bride's parents shouldn't have asked. (You are the ones to be offended.) Their statement that it is your son's wedding too, isn't correct.

A wedding and reception are the responsibility of the bride's parents entirely. It would take courage and tact to say no, but it might be easier for you, knowing that you shouldn't have been asked in the first place and that no one has the right to expect you to pay anything. After all, you didn't plan the wedding, so why should you pay for what someone else planned, even if your son is the bridegroom?

In so many words, you can just say that you and your husband are unable to do it. The why is nobody's business but your own. The less you alibi or explain, the better.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Sensitive Teen-Agers Must Overcome Beauty Defects

Everything possible should be done to build the teen-ager's self-confidence. One of the best ways to do this is to help her improve her appearance or overcome any defects in beauty she may have. At this age she exaggerates small imperfections and is terribly self-conscious about them.

Many young girls who feel that they are not "good looking" can be given new confidence by learning to take pride in their appearance. A new hairdo and training in how to use make-up judiciously can do wonders for the shy girl by giving her a feeling of glamor and change.

Complexion trouble is high on the list of emotional hurdles for many teen-agers. This is most often a factor in creating adolescent inferiority complexes. Physicians and educators have recognized this and have learned to take a new sort of active interest in teen-agers' grooming and good looks.

Some schools now teach skin care and right make-up in class. This realistic attitude about cosmetics and skin care has had a beneficial effect. For example, acne, so prevalent among adolescents, is now more easily controlled because of these basic briefings and make-up guidance.

By teaching personal grooming and beauty hints together, educators can stress the importance of cleanliness as a basis for all good looks without sounding stuffy. They can show how washing the face three times a day cleanses the pores and banishes the excess oil which is secreted by the little oil glands during teen-age years.

Frequent washing with soap and water and the suds massage which goes with this loosen the dirt and oil which may tend to clog the pores and thus lead to blackheads.

Of course hair and scalp should come in for their share of attention; too, with shampoos as often as necessary to keep the hair shining and the scalp clean. Daily brushing is also an essential. Remember, too, that dandruff can cause complexion trouble.

Not since the early days of Greece when the cultivation of beauty was a way of life have we had such a rational point of view about personal cleanliness and physical fitness.

Esquimalt High Scores 6th Win

By A. M. THOMAS

The talented youngsters of Esquimalt High School have done it again.

For the sixth time in nine attempts, Gulls' Flight, their annual publication, has won the Cecil Scott shield, open for competition to all B.C. high schools with an enrollment of fewer than 700 students.

Of 52 pages, 8½ by 11 inches, Gulls' Flight has, except for its rectangular format, all the attributes of a "slick" magazine—exhaustive, readable text, sharp photography, accurate editing and a leavening of pure, teen-age corn.

Coming as it does for Centennial year, to which the volume is dedicated, the award is a signal triumph for its sponsor for the last 20 years, Miss M Conibear (MA, Alberta) who teaches Latin and English, as well as to its editors headed by the young lady above, and who include:

Carol Deaville, copy; Amy Skeates, assistant; Bob Miller, personals; Ed. McIldoon, assistant; Donna Davies, literature; Julian Reid, assistant; Laura Schott, layout; Jo Ann Ericson, assistant; Margaret Cornfield, art, and Fern Abbott, business manager.

The candid photography was by John Addison and Stephen Ozard.

But the outstanding feature of Gulls' Flight is the full page, black and white illustrations by a 15-year-old ninth grader, Bruce Davies, 719 Selkirk.

In a medium unfamiliar to this reporter but of a richer texture than charcoal or crayon, young Bruce has pictured a wide cross-section of the British Columbia and some of its history—Fisgard Light, Craigflower School, Siwash Rock (with a Pauline Johnson quotation) and, what must have been difficult to capture, the fluid majesty of full-rigged yachts in the Swiftsure race.

These drawings, if the artist is dedicated to maturity may well make Gulls' Flight of '58 a collector's item.

But even if the reader is not absorbed in art or literature the book is well worth acquiring.

Hospitals Have Money Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — A delegation representing all public general hospitals in Canada has told Health Minister Monteith that Canadian hospitals are faced with a major financial dilemma.

The delegation said the problem stems from the fact that depreciation on buildings and interest on capital debt are not recognized as shareable costs under the national hospital insurance plan.

The six-member delegation represented the Canadian Hospital Association and the Catholic Hospital Association of Canada.

The delegation said hospitals are finding it increasingly difficult to refinance bond issues currently failling due or to issue new bonds to finance major renovations and new construction. This was because of uncertainy among investment dealers as to how hospitals would be able to repay loans.

Mother, 5 Sons Killed In Blaze

KIDDERMINSTER, England (Reuters) — A mother and her five young sons died Wednesday when a fire believed to have been caused by a faulty oil stove swept through their home. The father of the children, whose ages ranged from nine years to 15 months, escaped in his underclothes but was taken to hospital badly burned.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Michael L. Deshazer, aged 12, of Payette, Idaho, for the question:

How Is a Baby Sponge Born?

The parent sponge is a stodgy old stay-at-home. It cannot walk for it has no legs. It cannot swim for it has no fins, flippers or tentacles. It cannot see, smell or hear, for it has no senses. It cannot feel pain, for it has no nervous system. It has not even any kind of brain. In all the animal kingdom, the sponge is most like a vegetable. In fact, many plants are more complex than a sponge.

Some 3,000 of these stodgy fellows have been named and classified. Almost all of them live their lives squatting on the ocean floor. A very few, and all of them very small, live in fresh water. Many of these little fellows live their lives attached to floating logs.

A baby sponge may begin life as a bud from the body of its parents. All fresh water sponges begin life in this way and so do a few ocean sponges. Fresh water sponges living in temperate climates very often break apart in the cold weather. The soft tissue falls away leaving only the horny skeleton. When this happens, a wad of new cells is left wrapped in a skin. When conditions improve, a new sponge grows from this little seed package.

A budding sponge begins inside the body of the parent. Special cells gather to help the bud get started. They leave when the little bud is able to take care of itself. Very often, a small fresh water sponge is made up from several generations of sponges that have budded from one parent body. Sponges that grow from buds never leave home.

Has Few Days to Roam

Most sponges, however, begin life with a few days of freedom. The parent sponge may produce both egg cells and fertilizing cells. Or the egg cells may come from one parent and the fertilizing cells from another. A baby sponge is on its way when an egg and a fertilizing cell meet and become one Still sheltered inside the parent sponge, the fertilized egg divides into two cells, then in four, eight, 16 and 32 cells.

The little embryo now begins to take on shape. It becomes an oval, flattened at one end. Some of the outer cells grow hair-like tails called flagella. At last the baby sponge is ready to leave home. It leaves through one of the tunnels in the body of the parent sponge, waving its hair-like flagella as it goes.

The baby sponge is a larva. For a few days he has the freedom of the seas. Life, however, is full of danger for he may get eaten by a hungry fish. He soon gives up this risky existence and sinks to the bottom. There he finds himself a solid rock, an empty sea shell or maybe a colony of grown sponges. He firmly fixes himself and starts to grow. From here in he will lead the stodgy stay-at-home life of his parents.

* * *

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Kathryn McClure, age 8, of Woodlake, Calif., for her question:

How does an octopus breathe?

The octopus is a sea creature and, like the fish, he gets his oxygen from the water. The water enters his body through a very busy funnel. This funnel acts like a syphon to squirt ink, remove body wastes, lay eggs and produce the jet propulsion by which the octopus moves through the water.

The soft body of the octopus is encased in a loose overcoat of muscle called the mantle. At the neck end is an opening called the collar. The useful funnel is attached under the chin of the octopus and reaches back inside the mantle. Down there are two comblike gills in which the blood vessels are near enough to the surface to dissolve oxygen from the water. The funnel keeps a supply of water flowing over the gills. The gills take from the water the oxygen which the octopus needs for breathing.

BRIDGE LESSON

The ordinary finesse is an effort to turn a winner into a loser. Occasionally a player will want to finesse when all his cards in a suit are winners anyway.

Opening lead—♥ 5

A good example of this is a hand played many years ago by Charlton Wallace of Cincinnati.

East's three-heart bid gave Charlton quite a problem. He could double and pick up a few points (the set would have been two tricks with best defence) or he could bid some number of diamonds and try for game or slam in that suit or he could try three no-trump.

Charlton settled for the three no-trump bid and won the second heart lead. He had no diamond losers but also noted that his 10-9-8 could easily block out dummy's fifth diamond if the jack did not fall early.

It was apparent that if anyone held long diamonds it would be West so Charlton's first play was his king. He continued with the 10 and when West played low Charlton let it ride.

This play risked both a three-trick set and criticism from partner but Charlton felt that East's three-heart bid made the odds favorable to him.

They were and Charlton had his contract and the rubber.

T.V. with Lee

Franchot Tone, William Bendix in 'A Quiet Game of Cards' at 8.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE MIKADO WAS YUM-YUM—Producer Norman Campbell must have reached happily for his aspirins Wednesday morning content that his two-hour "Mikado" for the CBC the night before was just about as yum-yum as Gilbert and Sullivan could ever hope to be on a 21-inch stage that couldn't display the vivid colors that enhance all G & S productions so perceptibly.

Actually "The Mikado" was a triumph for all concerned. The two hours passed with the speed of one, carried on the voices of a vivacious and professional cast and marked by sets, lighting and costuming that could take their place among some of the best I have ever seen in a television show.

Now this from me—not that it matters—is high praise for I am no dedicated disciple of the G & S standard. Many of their operettas such as "Pinafore" and "The Pirates" I consider to be indelibly dated, the beaters of tom-toms for political causes long buried and forgotten. Much rather I would exercise my foot in tapping out the music and humming the lyrics of latter day quaints, such as Rodgers and Hammerstein and Lerner and Loewe. However "The Mikado" is something else again.

TV TEE-HEES

"Must be thrilling if you couldn't hear me ring the door bell!"

Just as monkeys is monkeys so peoples is peoples and that's what "The Mikado" is about, people, their customs and the peculiarities of the combination of the two and their irregularities to one another. This is dateless stuff, therefore in my mind this delightful comedy of morals is as fresh today as it was the night it opened back in 1885.

* * *

WHEREAS all members of the cast were good in his or own right, the smallest part keeping carefully in character throughout, I would like to mention in particularly the versatile Eric House as Ko-Ko, Roma Butler as the delightful Yum-Yum, Eric Treadwell's rich and booming Mikado, Alan Crofoot for his droll Poohbah and Victoria's Irene Byatt's excellent Katisha. Speaking as a proud local I would say that Miss Byatt, seen some time ago as "Buttercup" in "Pinafore" and more recently in "Peter Grimes" is improving with each performance.

And finally, a paen for the camera work that proved imaginative and versatile, moving back to catch the scope, moving in for the necessary close-ups and, above all, for the use of the overhead boom. A word, too, for the choreography of the chorus and the bit scenes which were also of sound calibre.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 1959

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Steer clear of any meetings with executives or bigwigs today. The day is better suited to social pleasures and comfortable hours with true friends and staunch supporters. Have a delightful and easy day for a change.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Don't endeavor to jump into new ventures with new friends until or unless you feel you understand all situations thoroughly. Study and be well-informed and prepared. Handle all obligations in most efficient and sensible fashion.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Be careful not to get entangled in some important affair that could last for a long time to come—on the advice of some authority who does not have real picture of your financial standing. Follow advice of scrupulous people.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Avoid that associate who, although intelligent, is a bit too curious about your personal affairs. Then the day is fine for looking into bills that must be paid, monies to be collected, security records adjusted, taxes, etc.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Any carelessness on your part where your work is concerned will be very detrimental today. Give your undivided attention to your job. Later you can have an enjoyable time with dearest friends at the sports or amusements you like best.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Don't give in to that temptation to leave important work behind so you can trip off with some fascinating individual. The aspects are fine for accomplishing much both at home tasks or in business world. Be factual and wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Matters at your residence do not appear to your liking throughout day and evening. Step out with close ties and business contacts to some charming spot for confabs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Now you have a day when you can have an uptrend in your affairs as well as help your close ties with theirs. Be careful of any snide remarks, however. Take utmost care on the road or in motion anywhere.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Today you can analyze your true financial position and look at condition of property so that you know where to invest or adjust for increased profits and abundance. Avoid overly dynamic partners or you stand to lose much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Realize that you cannot rely entirely on own judgment in important affairs and seek the advice of higher ups or personal advisors now. Show affection for them and they help you out of present problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Private anxiety is really getting you down. Be out and about with those persons who take things in their stride and have the "know-how" at all times. This lifts your spirits, you regain poise and can make this a profitable day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A good day to be by yourself for a while and concentrate on how to become more popular with others so that you can make real strides careerwise. Avoid a pugnacious comrade who wants to argue and spoil your digestion.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

The fine child born Friday is the enchanting type who will ever find favor with others because of the innate warm and charming personality. But early in life there will be also a propensity for needless arguing, which you must curb at earliest onset to bring out the real sunshine in this nature. Teach that sweetness is the most cherished quality needed in the world, especially if progeny is a girl.

MORE DEATH, LESS BIRTH AT DUNCAN

DUNCAN—Births and marriages reported to the provincial government office in Duncan in 1958 were below the 1957 total, while the death rate rose.

Births last year were eight below the 1957 total of 560, and marriages dropped to 120 from the 1957 figure of 146. The death total rose from 148 in 1957 to 155 last year.

The government office here registers vital statistics for Districts 65 and 66, including Duncan and district, and Cowichan Lake.

Feb. 25 on the basis of 30 days of actual session.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said the "people of this whole area have a big debt of gratitude to pay Mr. Taylor."

"His patient, persistent and able conduct of negotiations brought this about," he said. "He never gave up. He came quietly and went to work without any publicity. It is a tremendous job that he has done."

Chamber of Commerce manager John Coppinger said he hoped "this will be the prelude to many years of harmony between the company and its employees."

Also "pleased to death" was publicity bureau commissioner George Warren.

"We want no trouble with ferry strikes this summer," he said. "Already the inquiries from tourists are coming in at the rate of 25 letters a day."

The SIU struck the CPR line May 16, 1958, in support of demands for a 16 per cent wage boost across the board, plus another 9 per cent in 1959. The company offered 8 per cent.

Parliament's unprecedented legislation ending the strike became law July 25, with the steamship service being restored immediately.

The legislation provided for an immediate 8 per cent increase while negotiations continued.

The statute gave the government power, as a last resort, to refer the dispute to arbitration.

Mr. Taylor said in his telegram to Ottawa that the dispute had been settled "by the willingness of all parties to make concessions and therefore it will not be necessary to invoke compulsory arbitration powers."

SPANKING LEGALIZED

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — The South Dakota House of Representatives voted Wednesday to give school officials spanking power.

VANCOUVER — Lillian Lourmais, wife of a French frogman who last month swam most of the 500 miles down the Fraser River from Prince George to New Westminster, says she will attempt to duplicate her husband's historic swim.

She said Wednesday she will attempt the swim to publicize and get backing for an underwater expedition off the B.C. and Alaskan coasts.

Both she and her husband feel that Louis' swim last month failed in this purpose.

Louis said he would swim the most difficult parts of the river, probably including Hell's Gate Canyon, with his wife.

Mrs. Lourmais did not announce a starting date.

LONDON — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery flew to Switzerland Wednesday for a month-long vacation during which, he said, "I'll get to the top of a mountain and sit and think."

MOSCOW — Pravda's account of Premier Khrushchev's speech at the 21st Soviet Communist party congress Tuesday noted that the first applause came when he announced a goal of less work and more wages.

Thereafter were listed 17 instances of applause, 17 of stormy applause, 18 of prolonged applause, 15 of stormy and prolonged applause, seven of animation in the hall and a final notation 'stormy prolonged applause swelling into an ovation."

DENVER — "Don't worry," the obstetrician told Mrs. Mary Whitfield. "You've got another two weeks or so." The doctor was wrong by the margin of 13 days and 22 hours. Her husband, an army sergeant, delivered the infant boy in the back seat of the family car.

BOSTON — An organization known as Rescue, Inc. — patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous — has been formed in Boston to have men and women from suicide.

The program will be set up so that a person fearful of his impulses can simply telephone a number and get immediate help—a sympathetic ear, a reassuring voice from "someone who cares".

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Charles Young, 19, who wanted to "belong", surrendered at the Crawfordsville police station Wednesday and admitted two breakins that had not been reported. "There's nothing around here for a young fellow to do," he told police. "All my buddies are in jail, and I thought I would just get in with them."

Ceremony To Honor 'Old-Timers'

NANAIMO — Six old-time residents of B.C. will receive Centennial scrolls in February from Mayor P. Maffeo during a ceremony in council chambers.

First awards went to some 60 oldsters in January last year. Applications for final group were made late last year by relatives of several who are in nursing homes or hospital.

Relatives will receive the scrolls for Walter Robson, Rosinda Bennett, John Lee, Annie Brewster, Elizabeth Nicholson and Robert Martell, all of whom were residents of B.C. before July 4, 1886.

Fire Chief Dies During $1M Blaze

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (UPI)—A volunteer fire chief collapsed and died during a $1,000,000 blaze which leveled the Leonard Brothers fish plant and threatened nearby oil tanks before it was brought under control.

Sydney Mines volunteer fire chief, Lew Jessome, 69, collapsed and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Fire departments from four Cape Breton communities — Sydney Mines, Sydney, the Point Edward naval base in Westmount and North Sydney —plus fire pumps from two ships responded to the alarm.

At one time the blaze raged to within 50 feet of 4,000-gallon oil tanks on Kelly's wharf.

Plans Okayed For New School

Sketch plans for the new Belmont Junior High School on Station Road have been approved by Sooke District 63 school board.

The building, to cost an estimated $115,000, will include eight classrooms and an administration unit, and will be designed to be added to up to a maximum of 20 rooms.

It will be erected on the grounds of the present Belmont Junior-Senior High School on Jacklin Road, and will require that the present school board office building be moved.

A referendum authorizing the school building program was approved by ratepayers last year. Architects Wade, Stockdill and Armour have instructions to start working drawings as soon as the education department has approved the sketch plans and the referendum is final.

Student 'Co-Op' To Tour Europe

Nearly 200 Victoria high school students are planning to share in a self-paid trip to Britain and Europe in 1960.

R. W. Mercer, teacher of social studies and English at Oak Bay High School, has proposed that interested students should get busy and earn the money themselves for the trip.

"It would cost about $500 each for all expenses," he says. "It is better that the students earn their own passage money instead of receiving hand-outs from their parents.

"They would appreciate it more."

The idea has grown to the extent that almost 200 high school students throughout Greater Victoria have now launched plans to raise funds for the trip.

Mr. Mercer, a former teacher in English, has conducted similar tours from there to the continent.

He is now holding regular meetings of students to discuss arrangements and places to visit.

Arrangements have been made with a bank in Victoria to look after funds, and the working students will follow a timetable whereby they bank about $5 a week for the trip.

Tentative plans call for the party to go by rail to New York, then by charter plane across the Atlantic. Then, for about three and a half weeks, they will tour Europe, visiting Paris, Lausanne, perhaps Rome, Vienna, Munich, Bonn and Ostend.

In each city they will see places of historic and cultural interest but will be housed outside the big cities.

They may spend two weeks in Britain, with the party splitting up into various groups for different tours. One reason for this is that many students have relatives in different parts of the country and they will be able to visit them.

Each small group will be accompanied by a teacher and at least one will be qualified to administer medical aid if required.

Cabinet Would Flee To Mainland in War

Plans to move the seat of government to the mainland in event of war are being studied by the provincial civil defence committee, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday.

The scheme is part of a national plan involving discussions between Ottawa officials and all provincial CD authorities. It is thought likely some government institution in the Fraser Valley or the interior would be chosen for a relocation in this province.

Establishment of a provisional, skeleton government on the mainland would eliminate possible difficulties in Island-mainland communication if war occurred.

Algeria Battle Raging

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Reinforcements were being moved today to a battle raging between French forces and a 200-man insurgent band near Tenes, west of Algiers, French official sources reported.

More than 40 insurgents had been killed. French losses were given as 11 killed or wounded.

Accused Changes Innocent Plea In Murder Case

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Luis Moya, one of two men charged with murder in the strangulation of Olga Duncan today withdrew his plea of innocent.

However, Moya did not plead guilty and retained his plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

The surprise move paved the way for Moya to testify against Augustine Baldonado and Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan — Olga Duncan's mother-in-law—who also are charged with murder.

Moya said he decided to change his plea after "prayerful consideration." The district attorney did not oppose the action.

Mrs. Duncan and Baldonado pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity and face trial Feb. 16.

SCHOOL POLICING URGED
'Blind' Students Pose Traffic Trap

LANGFORD — Non-observance of traffic laws by students of Belmont Junior-Senior High School was brought before the meeting of the Belmont Parent-Teachers Council this week.

It was suggested the school area be policed when students are released from classes and that students should stay off the motorist's part of the road.

Lack of co-operation from the students using the roads has made the area a hazard for motorists in the 15-mile-an-hour zone.

The situation is worse during bad weather, with drivers having to apply brakes when not necessary nor advisable on icy roads. The problem extends beyond the school area and is a danger to motorists not familiar with the unco-operative ways of the students. Motorists are doing more than their part in the 15-mile zone, it was stated.

Permission was granted for the boys' basketball team to purchase new T-shirts at an approximate cost of $30.

Date of the annual school bazaar was set for April 24.

It was reported by the council that repairs to stage curtains had been made and paid for, and a make-up kit for the drama club purchased.

Changes in the by-laws were discussed in preparation for the next annual meeting.

'Blood Misers' Attacked As Red Cross Drive Lags

A certain "apathy towards giving blood" among some groups of Victorians was rapped at the annual general meeting Wednesday of Victoria Red Cross.

Maj. Robert Hogarth, blood donor chairman, said people during the war years "used to boast about giving blood, but now they are civilians there is apparently no glamor to it."

"Some people think of blood-donating as a lot of nonsense and won't give any. But they are the first ones to yell blue murder when they are in the hospital and need a couple of transfusions. But we are not discouraged."

Victorians donated 6,986 pints during 1958, compared to 7,138 in 1957. Some 2,256 hospital patients benefited.

Multiplicity of charitable appeals in Victoria also came in for some criticism.

Said campaign chairman T. L. McMaster, "It seemed more difficult and slower to raise funds in 1958. We are failing to attract better support from business, which group barely achieved its quota of only 20 per cent of the target."

The 1958 campaign netted $81,894 from 20,393 persons, $80 more than last year. Donations, several large legacies totalling $29,786 and Junior Red Cross funds brought the total revenue from the public to $114,052, of which $109,953 went to B.C. division headquarters.

The meeting at 1046 Fort Street heard that the Red Cross home emergency service helped out in 71 mother-and-baby cases, 93 cases of sickness and 40 accident or operation cases.

WATER SAFETY TOPS

The Red Cross Corps gave 2,708 hours; the Lodge served 21,110 meals to 17,230 visitors; 17,068 hospital visits were made, and five new examiners were added to the water safety program.

The water safety committee won high praise from guest speaker F. R. Killam, B.C. divisional president.

"This branch is the most active in water safety of all branches in B.C. by a long way," he said. "You are doing an excellent job."

Mr. Killam added it would be a "major disaster for Canada if blood donors went on strike," noting that blood transfusions would cost the people of B.C. $2,000,000 a year if the service were not free. He remarked that some years ago blood cost $40 a pint.

HIGHER DONATIONS

The Victoria branch also came in for some applause from B.C. commissioner Col. C. A. Scott, who estimated that Victorians who gave to the 1958 campaign donated an average $4 each, compared with a per capita average of 41 cents throughout the province.

The existing executive council was re-elected: President, Dr. Olga Jardine; immediate past-president, B. P. Alley; first vice-president, E. Heybroek; second vice-president, M. L. FitzGerald; secretary-treasurer, H. E. Geddes, and solicitor, H. J. Davis.

Added to the executive committee were Mrs. G. A. Pole, Bart Parson, Geoffrey Gilbert and CPO Alfred Aylward.

JAYCEE SHOW FEB. 23-24

Hundreds on Ice For 'Spectacular'

Junior Chamber of Commerce drive to raise money for a new ice rink in Victoria will be launched by a giant ice show Feb. 23 and 24 at Memorial Arena.

Sponsored jointly by the Junior Chamber, the Victoria Figure Skating Club and the Minor Hockey Association, the show will start a campaign to raise $123,000 for the annex to be situated behind the arena.

Among the acts will be 400 youngsters, ranging in age from three to eleven, in a masquerade number; the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, performing in slip-proof socks, Minor Hockey League members in exhibitions of hockey and lacrosse on ice; square dancing on ice, and a broomball game between rival fire departments.

Slum Program Given Serious Study

Mayor Percy Scurrah said Wednesday that "serious consideration" is being given by City Hall to feasibility of a long-range slum clearance program.

"It would be a terrific improvement if he could work out a plan that was feasible," he said. "It would bring in new revenue and improve the looks of the city materially."

He said if a redevelopment scheme was undertaken it probably would be the commercial area bounded by Government, Wharf, Herald and Fort.

"We think it would be extremely desirable to redevelop that area to bring it back into the high-tax bracket on our roll," he said.

A council committee is investigating the possibility of making a survey for a plan of redevolpment spread over 10 to 20 years "but nothing has been decided yet," said the mayor.

Under federal legislation, the city could commission a survey with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation paying 75 per cent of the cost.

If actual development was begun, the city would share the costs of acquiring and razing sites 50-50 with the federal government.

After the clearing operation, the lots would be sold for commercial development in the normal manner.

MONTREAL (CP) — The CNR and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) have reached a three-year labor agreement providing 11,000 CNR employees with wage increasing totalling nearly 10 per cent.

Yugoslavia Cuts Trade With Russia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — Yugoslav trade with the Soviet Union will be reduced by $16,000,000 this year, reversing a three-year policy of increase trade, it was announced today.

An agreement signed in Moscow Wednesday after six weeks' hard bargaining provides for a total exchange of goods worth $108,000,000 in 1959 compared with $124,000,000 in 1958.

The new pact was signed 24 hours after a scathing attack on Yugoslavia by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist Party in Moscow. The projected cut in trade is believed to be a direct result of Moscow's 10-month campaign against Yugoslav "revisionism."

There was a general feeling here that the Soviet bloc campaign against Yugoslavia is to be intensified, and many observers believe that trade will be affected, even though some trade agreements with East bloc countries provide for nominal increases.

Gorge Road Hospital Board Studies New Wing

Dr. E. N. Boettcher said a new wing for the Gorge Road Hospital is under "active consideration," during an address Wednesday to the hospital's women's auxiliary.

A member of the hospital's board of directors, he said the addition being considered would add a convalescent and rehabilitation centre, a general nursing care centre and an out-patient clinic to the 104-bed residential care home for the chronically ill.

However, he said that no firm plans have been made for the construction yet.

Old Masters Smash All Gallery Records

Attendance at the Art Gallery, where the $500,000 Hammer Collection of Old Masters is on display, has broken all records, gallery officials said today.

Since Jan. 6, when the 50 paintings were put on view, about 8,000 adults have paid them a visit. School children in organized groups have numbered nearly 1,400.

These figures are in contrast to the usual attendance of some 16,000 a year, Moncrieff Williamson, assistant curator, said. Including lectures, club meetings and other activities, about 30,000 persons visit the Gallery annually.

The show, which is sponsored by the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, is free of charge to the public and will continue until Saturday at 5 p.m.

Fourth Pro Win

TOKYO (AP) — Isami Ikeyama, Japanese flyweight who won a boxing gold medal at the Asian Games last May, won his fourth pro fight Wednesday. He outpointed Keijiro Kazama, Japan's seventh-ranking lightweight, in a dull 10 rounder.

M and B 'Must Pay' Full School Tax

Firm Should Be Forced To Aid Albernis, Says MLA

The B.C. Government was asked in the Legislature Wednesday to "force" MacMillan & Bloedel timber company to pay full school taxes on all of its property in the Albernis.

John Squire, CCF member for Alberni, said these taxes should be paid despite an exemption granted to the company 13 years ago.

Speaking in the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Squire said the cities of Alberni and Port Alberni were losing thousands of dollars because of this exemption.

"It is not very comforting to our people when they read in the newspapers that the school treasury is empty; then learn that a big lumber firm has won an appeal on the schools tax issue.

"This company has a moral responsibility to pay these school taxes. They should go now to the city council in Alberni and tell the council they are prepared to accept their responsibilities and pay these taxes imposed by the provincial government."

Last week in the B.C. Court of Appeal MacMillan & Bloedel won an appeal against demand by the city for school taxes on its land at Port Alberni that could have cost the company an additional $250,000 per year.

The company agreed to fixed assessments of $100,000 for land and $700,000 for improvements when it entered a contract with the city in 1946 that will expire in February, 1965.

Assessment now is $27,000,000. Additional taxation was sought by the city under the Assessment Equalization Act of 1957, which states that lands and improvements should be assessed at their actual value.

Information obtained from MacMillan and Bloedel is that the company has already sent the Port Alberni council a letter in which it has undertaken to pay the school taxation on the full assessment for the years 1958 and 1959. This amounts to $404,399 for 1958 and will approximate $420,000 for 1959.

(This means if the city wishes to take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada any judgment by that court will not go into effect until the 1960 taxation year.

In the meantime the company has also guaranteed to pay the city's court costs for both the court of appeal and supreme court cases.)

Mr. Squire added that he was not criticizing the company over its administration in the Alberni Valley nor on its labor relations. But he would suggest that the company's directors were "too far from the Alberni Valley."

He said the company employed men and women whose children were receiving their education in School District 70.

"By virtue of a very sharp pencil and the accumulation of very brilliant minds, they have systematically shifted their own tax load of social responsibility onto the treasurise of Alberni and Port Alberni," Mr. Squire declared.

"Where is the balance to come from—the city, the provincial government or the company?" Mr. Squire asked.

Come home, Joe!

Governor Throws in Towel

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Governor J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., said Wednesday Virginia was at the end of the legal line in attempting to operate a racially - segregated public school system.

He conceded he knew of no other way to turn to halt the impending admission of Negroes to white schools in Norfolk, Arlington and Charlottesville.

And he proposed in a full-dress speech to the opening of an emergency session of the Virginia general assembly a program of transition to private education in areas that won't accept integration.

In May, 1911, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered Standard Oil combine, and the American Tobacco Co. combine, dissolved.

BEER SALES UP 50% WITH WIVES AT PUMPS

LONDON — Customers are drawing their own pints in Britain's first self-service pub.

Charles Farrow thought of the idea when changes in the layout of his Kensington tavern left the beer pumps on the wrong side of the bar.

Sales are up 50 per cent since the innovation. "Women just love pulling pints for their husbands," he explains.

CPR Ferry Dispute Settled by Pay Hike

The 14-months-old Canadian Pacific Ferry dispute ended early today.

Federal mediator Eric Taylor wired Labor Minister Starr at 3 a.m. that the company and three unions signed an agreement extending to Aug. 31, 1961.

The agreement is expected to apply to Black Ball Ferries, which said earlier it would offer the same terms to its employees that the CPR signed.

The settlement averted the threat of a new strike in mid-February, and forestalled the possibility of compulsory arbitration.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but it is understood the officer groups Marine Engineers and Merchant Service Guild will get a 3 per cent boost Feb. 1, another 3 per cent Sept. 1 this year, and a final 3 per cent Sept. 1, 1960.

Pay boost terms for the Seafarers' International Union were not revealed.

It was learned unofficially that the SIU will receive a greater wage increase percentage-wise than the officer groups, although this will result in a smaller boost in terms of dollars.

The increases for the officer groups are in addition to an 8 per cent hike awarded all three unions July 26, 1958, under the federal order which resulted in the government administering the ferry fleet pending a settlement.

Five Days of Negotiations

Mr. Taylor said today the agreement provides "most significantly for an end to the threat of interruption in the coast steamship service until after the tourist season of 1961 is ended."

He told The Times the agreement came after five days of intensive negotiations with union representatives conducted "without fanfare and trumpets."'

Some 26 issues originally in dispute had been narrowed down to four—terms of agreement, wages, welfare and overtime.

Earlier, a Vancouver SIU spokesman had disclosed that the union was planning to strike the line immediately after federal control ended in February.

Under provisions of the federal administration order, control was to end 30 days after the current session of parliament began. On the basis of 30 calendar days, this date would have been Feb. 15, or

4 IN FAMILY SLAIN BY SON

3 Freed In Gang Slaying

OTTAWA (CP)—The murder trial of five Ottawa teenagers accused in the knife-slaying of Robert O'Leary ended suddenly today with a conviction of two on a reduced charge of manslaughter and acquittal of the three others.

James McDermott, 17, and James Post, 16, pleaded guilty to manslaughter charges and were remanded to Tuesday for sentence.

Acquitted were Henry Dupuis, Thomas John Drain and Robert Post, brother of James, all 19.

All were charged in connection with the death of 20-year-old O'Leary from knife wounds in a Nov. 23 gang fight on Somerset Street.

TRANSFUSIONS 'NOT TOO IMPROBABLE'

Animal Blood for Humans?

(See also Page 19)

It does not seem "too improbable" that animal blood soon may be used in transfusions for humans, Dr. Gordon Fryer, chief of Canada's civil defence medical services, said here today.

"It may break within six months or two years."

Blood groups of animals follow the same general classes as human blood groups, he said, and experiments have gone as far as successfully transfusing blood between different types of animals.

The next step would be between animals and humans.

Experiments in Canada have been conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, he said, by veterinarians.

"The possibility came about by veterinarian research."

He added: "We are mammals, too."

Physicians are "quite interested" in the experiments by veterinarians, he said, but are making no pronouncements until developments warrant.

Dr. Fryer, eight years chief medical officer of civil defence, said exchange of blood between animals and humans would provide a great help in any national emergency.

DISC JOCKEY RECOVERS AFTER 13-HOUR SLEEP

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Tripp woke up a little later than most people today and said he felt fine after a 13-hour nap. The young disk jockey had flopped into a hotel bed Wednesday night after staying awake for 200 hours.

Tripp started his no-sleep marathon Jan. 20 to aid the March of Dimes campaign and to provide scientific information.

In Jacksonville, Fla., Dave Hunter of radio station WZRO—who said he had started two hours ahead of Tripp—today was still continuing his no-sleep marathon. Hunter also had been under medical supervision.

REVISE BNA ACT

Douglas Moves To Protect Human Rights

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas has proposed an amendment to the British North America Act to protect human rights.

In a statement here today, Premier Douglas said he has written Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking that a federal-provincial conference he held to consider such a change in the act.

The premier said few Canadians could quarrel with the objectives of a bill of rights. But he said a bill contained "in an ordinary statute of Parliament'" would have limitations. It would be restricted to matters within the jurisdiction of parliament.

Mr. Douglas' draft proposal would prevent Parliament or any provincial legislature from making laws "abridging freedom of speech and expression or of the press or other means of communication, or freedom of religion, or the right of lawful assembly, association or organization."

The BNA Act amendment would also prevent excessive bail, cruel or unusual punishment, and exiling of Canadian citizens. It would stop "unreasonable interference" in a person's privacy and arbitrary arrest or detention without trial.

Another section of the proposed amendment would prevent discrimination against a person because of race, sex, religion, or language. Regardless of these things, any person would have the right to vote or be a member of Parliament the right to employment and education and the right to belong to any professional association.

ENERGY BOARD TO GO AHEAD, SAYS JOHN D.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the government intends to proceed with establishment of a national energy board without waiting for the final report of the Borden royal commission.

Replying in the Commons to George McIlraith (L—Ottawa West), the prime minister noted that the Borden commission had recommended establishment of a national energy board in its preliminary report Oct. 26.

CPR Pays Fine

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway was convicted Wednesday in police court on a charge of committing a nuisance by causing a condition of air pollution. A fine of $25 was levied. The charge was laid after a complaint from a smoke inspector that smoke from a company boat docked at a downtown wharf covered his car with soot.

'No Serious Gaps' In U.S. Defences

WASHINGTON (A)—Secretary of Defence Neil McElroy told senators today that if Russia starts a war in the near future, the outcome will be decided by long-range bombers in which the United States is superior.

Neither the Soviet Union nor the U.S. now has an operational inter-continental ballistic missile. McElroy insisted. And he questioned whether Russia's vast submarine fleet could inflict heavy damage by surprise attacks with short-range missles.

McElroy's estimate of the relative U.S.-Soviet strength came during two hours of sharp questioning.

McElroy said:

1. The first ICBM operational base in the U.S. will be in use at Camp Cook, Calif., next June.

2. It is true that some range has been sacrificed for the polaris missile, originally planned as a 1,500-mile weapon, in order to speed the program. The defence secretary said this submarine-fired missile did not require 1,500 miles range to be capable of hitting vital parts of the Soviet Union.

3. There are no serious gaps in America's defences.

'Major Victory' Seen for Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States apparently has tacitly recognized Canada's entitlement to downstream benefits on the Columbia River, informants said today.

They said this appears to be the real meaning behind a joint announcement today by the Canadian and U.S. governments that the International Joint Commission has been instructed to recommend apportionment between the two countries of power developed on the Columbia.

Up to now, the U.S. section of the commission has never conceded that Canada was entitled to a share of power generated on the U.S. part of the Columbia from water fed down from storage dams on the Canadian part of the river. The U.S. section's attitude was that the American government had not made up its mind on this problem.

Sources said the U.S. government would not instruct the U.S. section of the commission to discuss apportionment of downstream benefits unless it had recognized that Canada was entitled to a share of these benefits.

Thus Canada can be said to have won a major victory in the diplomatic exchanges which have been in progress for the last year or two on future development of the Columbia, which rises in British Columbia and flows through the U.S. Pacific northwest.

Informants said it may take many months before firm agreement is reached on sharing of downstream benefits.

B.C. Gov't Approval Needed

Not only would agreement between Canada and the U.S. have to be achieved but concurrence of the British Columbia government would have to be obtained. Water resources come under provincial jurisdiction.

The six-member International Joint Commission is not scheduled to meet until March 16 at Chicago when it will discuss the report of the Columbia River engineering board.

The Canadian government has indicated that Canada wants 50 per cent of power generated at U.S. dams on the Columbia from water stored behind Canadian dams.

But it is far from clear to what this 50 per cent share would apply. It might apply to one or several of Canadian or U.S. dams.

The external affairs department announced that the two governments have asked the Canadian and American sections of the commission to recommend "at an early date" on these two matters:

1. Benefits which will re-

ANDREI GROMYKO

LASHES WEST

Peace Or War Warning

MOSCOW (CP) — Foreign Minister Gromyko today told the Communist party congress that West Germany faces "only two alternatives" — agreeing to a peace treaty or starting nuclear armament, which "means preparation of a new war."

Any war now could "result only in the defeat of the aggressor and the extent of this defeat would be unparalleled by anything known in history."

Western leaders had embarked on an aggressive course which reflected "the still-undying hopes of some hotheads that it is possible to put back the clocks of history."

"The Soviet Union is ready today to reach agreement on the German question," he said. "But if such agreement is not reached—and that will not be our fault — then the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries will search for other ways of solving this question."

WILLISTON HAILS NEWS

B.C. Peace Plan 'Called Bluff'

The report that U.S. authorities have tacitly agreed to Canada's right to downstream benefit return was welcomed by B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston as a "first step" toward power development of the Columbia River.

He claimed "there can be no doubt this agreement has been obtained because of plans to develop the Peace."

The minister pointed out taht "tacit agreement" still indicates a great deal of bargaining lies ahead to determine mutually the rate of power return.

The U.S. would pay for benefits they would receive for dam construction north of the international border becouse of controlled flows of water to its own power installations.

Because of the bargaining time-lag, plus the complicated engineering, construction and financing requirements for a public development on the Columbia, the Peace River is still the only solution to the urgent need for power in B.C., the minister said.

"The Peace is a single shot; the Columbia is a complex development," he stated.

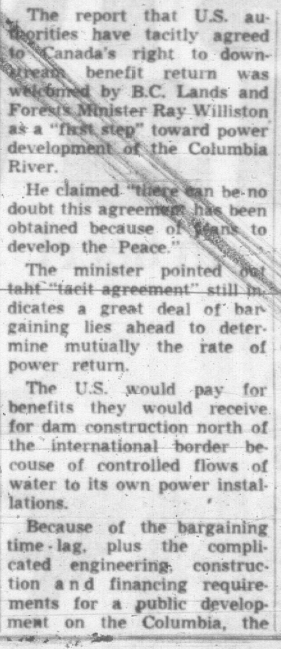
"They thought the Peace was a bluff," said the minister. He felt that if B.C. had not shown it could develop alternative power of some magnitude, the U.S. would have delayed in hopes B.C. would have had to develop the Columbia to answer the urgent power need of the 1960s, or else go into high-cost thermo-generation on a wide scale.

"Up to now the U.S. authorities had never got to the point where they would sit down and seriously study downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

He added it was disturbing that his department had so far not been consulted on problems of Kootenay residents regarding possible flooding of arable lands and lecoation of homes and roads.

RAINIER CRACKS DOWN

Revolt in Monte Carlo?



PRINCE RAINIER
. . . master of 368 acres

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — Prince Rainier III of Monaco, one of the world's last absolute monarchs, acted dramatically today to make his rule even more absolute.

Rainier told the 21,000 Monagasques over whom he rules that some people were trying to whittle away some of his power and he wasn't going to put up with it.

Then the master of all the 368 acres he surveys suspended the constitution which his grandfather, Prince Albert, gave to the paradise principality on the French Riviera in 1911.

In a radio broadcast to his subjects, the 36-year-old monarch disbanded the legislative national council, which had been quietly snipping away at his powers for the past year.

The municipal council got the same treatment—summary firing.

Only last night, the popular prince and his equally popular wife, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and Hollywood, hobnobbed with council members at a gala performance in the Royal Theatre of "The Good Soup," a play about prostitutes.

The operetta-style crisis, which could probably happen only here or, in Princess Grace's former realm—Hollywood—extended from the royal palace to the man on the street and the croupier behind the casino gaming table.

The populace, whether fond of him or not, was ordered by the prince not to gather in the streets or to demonstrate against the measures he was announcing.

Insurance Firm Owned in B.C. To Quit Business

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

A Vancouver-owned insurance firm which wrote "a tremendous amount of business" in Victoria is going out of business at the end of the year.

Canadian Western Insurance Co., formed three years ago by 49 Vancouver businessmen, will discontinue underwriting new business Feb. 1, president K. Vernon Kirkby announced.

Mr. Kirkby said CW has lost about $200,000 since its inception.

Reserves are adequate to carry all existing business, he said. Policyholders are protected by a financial guarantee posted with the superintendent of insurance.

Malone

Hagar Investments Ltd. became Victoria agents for Canadian Western about two years ago.

"It's a pity that Canadian Western is going out of business," a spokesman for Hagar's said. "The company had a general insurance package deal allowing for payments on a long-term, convenient basis. They underwrote everything from yachts to cars to houses. We didn't have to sell it—the public wanted it."

In Vancouver, CW president Kirkby blamed low insurance rates and heavy fire losses for his firm's failure.

The Hagar spokesman agreed. Rising auto insurance claims were also a factor, he said.

The number of auto insurance claims on Vancouver Island dropped 10 per cent last year, he said.

"But the average auto claim soared to $96 south of Bamberton and climbed even higher north of Bamberton where much of the driving is done at high speed.

"As you know," he said somewhat sadly," speed is the main factor in auto accidents."

Low incidence of house fires in the Greater Victoria area resulted in a lower rate for coverage, he said.

"Then, as so often happens, there was a rash of house fires and claims mounted enormously."

Like the beanstalk which grew and grew and grew, Investors Mutual of Canada, the nation's largest mutual fund, shows no signs of a stunted growth.

The annual report shows IMA had net assets of $161,295,000 at Oct. 31, an increase of approximately $39,000,000 over 1957. Total sales of shares exceeded $24,000,000, up about $4,500,000. Total net income was up 11 per cent.

Dividend returns have averaged an annual return of 17.2 per cent. In the same eight-year period the consumer price index has had an annual approximate increase of two per cent.

* * *

MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. net income rose sharply in the last quarter of 1958. A company statement shows income of $3,629,280 against $1,158,171 in the same quarter of 1957. Sales were up from $33,933,908 to $47,661,468.

Company president Ralph Shaw said the increased sales and profits picture was tempered with the fact the 1957 quarter reflected the pulp and paper strike which began in the middle of November and extended into 1958.

The "Lark" is proving to be a "lulu" for Studebaker-Packard.

Studebaker pinned its hopes on its new, small auto, the "Lark," to bolster sagging sales and profits. The gamble has paid off. The American division of Studebaker reported fourth-quarter of '58 sales of $88,652,000 yielded a profit of $3,700,000.

This was the first three-month period in which Studebaker has reported a profit since the final quarter of 1953.

The "Lark" was introduced several weeks later in Canada than in the U.S., but already Canadian president Gordon E. Grundy says the firm's U.S. sales boom will be paralleled.

In the first weeks of January, sales of Studebaker vehicles in Canada have risen 90 per cent over the same period last year.

If this keeps up Studebaker-Packard may change the name of their profit buggy from the "Lark" to the "Lovely Lark."

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices generally showed irregularity and were easier today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Dealings were quiet.

Flax trade disclosed fairly liberal offerings, mostly from American sources. Although export houses were buyers on declines, there were no reports of overseas business.

Modest shipper orders appeared in oats and barley associated with small parcel lot sales of barley to the United Kingdom. Prices moved narrowly.

Rye displayed hesitation under local selling.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were up ⅛ cent from Wednesday.

H-Bomb on Victoria 'Not Worth Waste' Says Civil Defence

Possibility of a five-megaton bomb being "wasted" on Victoria in the event of nuclear warfare is remote, B.C.'s civil defence co-ordinator, Brig. G. A. McCarter said today.

"We don't think this would happen," he told 34 sanitary inspectors from throughout the province attending a CD orientation course.

"Would you waste a five-megaton bomb on Victoria?" he asked rhetorically.

"The most danger, as we see it, to Victoria, would probably be launching of a missile from out at sea."

If the B.C. capital were moved to the mainland—as suggested by Attorney General Robert Bonner—in the case of atomic attack, civil defence headquarters control here would follow, Brig. McCarter said.

"We don't have to stay in any one control centre."

The brigadier made his remarks at the first CD course for "sanitators" ever held in Canada. It ends today after a week of lectures and study.

Dr. Gordon Fryer, medical consultant for federal CD services, admitted that because of "vacillation" in federal CD policies, "medical co-operation has not been as great as it could have been."

FIRST AID READY

However, of Canada's 17,000 doctors, 730 have attended special courses at the National Defence College, Arnprior, Ont., and are now in a position to "fit in" if national disaster struck.

There are 52,000 civil defence-trained nurses in Canada; pharmacists are "well organized" and have taken CD courses at the university level with emphasis on handling emergency medical supplies; dentists would be invaluable in the blood services and, in the event of great pressure, in operative work due to knowledge of anatomy.

Major role of the nation's veterinarians would be protection and control of the "food chain."

On the possibility of duplication of services by CD, the Red Cross and St. John Ambulance, he said main CD emphasis was on the national level, not local.

"Large magnitude disaster, whether in peace or war, must be a federal responsibility," due to the costs involved.

He referred to the Red Cross as an "administrative bulkhead" that has not the resources to stand up to a widespread disaster.

ADVANCE GUARD

It is an "advance guard", and when its resources are no longer sufficient "then they become a part of the CD organization".

This applied also to the militia and other organizations, he said.

The federal plan, said Dr. Fryer, is to move vital medical supplies from present to "more strategic locations" in the event of war.

As the situation now exists, these supplies are in or close to fall-out areas.

'Package Plan' Urged For Social Security

Welfare Official Sees Big Saving

By JOHN MIKA

The confusing multiplicity of social security programs in Canada should be tied up in one manageable package, a top welfare official from Ottawa said here today.

Norman Cragg, executive secretary of the public welfare division of the Canadian Welfare Council, said in an interview that more value could be wrung out of the welfare dollar if a 22-point program proposed by CWC were adopted.

NORMAN CRAGG
. . . get together

Mr. Cragg was to explain the program today to a meeting in Spencerhouse of representatives from business, labor, government, church and welfare groups.

Sponsored by the Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council, the meeting was to discuss a brief presented by CWC to the federal and provincial governments last fall.

"We feel this is one of the most important documents ever presented on social security in Canada, not only for what it says but because it was developed after thorough study by persons interested in welfare across the nation," Mr. Cragg said.

Chief recommendation of the brief is establishment of a royal commission to study for the first time the whole field of social security and bring in recommendations on the methods that it could be integrated.

"We're concerned with the fact that there are many programs in existence, some federal, some provincial and some municipal, without any clear or consistent pattern," he said.

Costs Shared on Sliding Scale

"All this has grown up by bits and pieces and we feel it is time that the whole field should be integrated and consolidated."

The brief proposes an overall public assistance act which would be administered by the provinces with the cost shared by the federal government on a sliding scale based on economic conditions, so that provinces and municipalities are not over-burdened during recession periods.

"This would save administrative costs and provide assistance more effectively without increasing the total welfare expenditures," Mr. Cragg said.

The brief also urges a shift in emphasis in the basis of assistance programs.

"Up until now, the cause of the need for assistance—unemployment and old age for example—has been the basis for determining assistance.

"We would like to see programs established where the fact of need alone determines assistance," he said.

The brief is divided into three sections dealing with old age pensions, public assistance and unemployment insurance.

Wider Benefits for Unemployed

The council has asked for retention of the present old age pension with a thorough study to be given by a joint parliamentary committee on a compulsory program of contributing towards retirement pensions similar to the one in the United States, which is now under study by Canada.

Consolidation of all the public assistance programs would bring improvement in the second area, the brief says.

"As for unemployment insurance, we feel that more people should be brought into the UIC system. At present it covers only 82 per cent of the working population," Mr. Cragg said.

"We also feel that the ratio of benefits to earnings should be increased from its present range of 30 to 55 per cent, possibly to about two-thirds, as it is in the U.S. This should be given careful study.

"If a man goes into the hole too far when he is unemployed then it is harder for him to get back on his feet when he does land a job," said Mr. Cragg. "The present benefits often are insufficient for an unemployed worker to meet his essential day-to-day cost of living."

Emphasis on Preserving Initiative

Mr. Cragg said the National Employment Service should be increased with better qualified staff, especially in the department that tries to find jobs for older workers or the disabled.

"The whole emphasis in our brief is to develop employment, rehabilitation and vocational training policies to the point where they will bring employment to as many people as possible," he said.

"Failing employment, we feel the federal government has a responsibility for maintenance of those persons but the emphasis should be placed on preserving the initiative and the individual integrity of the person.

"We don't want to create dependency, we want to eliminate it."

The Canadian Welfare Council is a national organization of public and private welfare agencies, governments, professional workers and volunteers and a variety of community organizations. tI has a reciprocal membership in the Greater Victoria Community Chest.

8 Escape as Fire Flares in Home

Six adults and two children escaped from a Belmont Avenue home shortly after 9.30 p.m. Wednesday in a fire which caused at least $2,000 damage to basement and house walls.

LS Lionel Stephenson, 2311 Belmont, smelled smoke while he was in the kitchen, looked down basement stairs and "saw a cloud of smoke and a bunch of burning clothes."

In the upstairs suite were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Conarroe visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Yarmie.

Mrs. Stephenson pushed her three-week-old baby into Mrs. Yarmie's arms and said "the house is on fire!

Mrs. Yarmie in turn handed the baby to her mother who carried it to safety. Mrs. Stephenson returned to her own suite to help her husband to save their other child, Paul, aged three.

Owner of the house, Archie Willock, 3140 Cedar Hill, said he had cleaned the pipes of the coal and wood furnace five hours before the fire started.

A fire department spokesman said cause of the blaze was believed to be defective electrical wiring. This was still under investigation.

Conference Asked on 'Rights' Bill

Oak Bay Liberal MLA P. A. Gibbs will ask the B.C. Legislature to arrange a federal-provincial conference to discuss necessary changes in provincial legislation to give a nation bill of rights full effect.

The federal government has introduced a measure to preserve human rights and the provinces would require parallel legislation, the member said in a motion filed today.

There is no way of knowing when the motion might come before the Legislature.

Mr. Gibbs said their are several phases of a national bill of rights which may step into provincial rights especially in the field of labor.

"There should be some co-ordination of all our law to accord with what the federal house brings down." He suggested the proposed national conference could be attended by premiers and attorneys-general.

He felt a further important feature is freedom of the press, which could vary in some provinces.

BIKE POLICE GET CRASH HATS

Victoria motrocycle policemen are slated to don crash helmets this year.

City police commission today approved provision in the 1959 budget for purchase of the protective headgear.

Work Starts On Airport Face-Lifting

Work has started on the giant runway rebuilding job at Patricia Bay Airport to be done by Perini Pacific Ltd., on a contract of $921,779.

Initial chore is the replacing of wooden drains installed under the airport when it was first built 18 years ago. A subcontractor, G. W. Ledingham & Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, is busy tearing out the old drains and replacing them with concrete.

While the drainage program is proceeding, the prime contractor is accumulating equipment ready for the job of resurfacing the 5,000-foot east-west runway with blacktop.

A machinery yard at the airport is being rapidly filled with trucks, cranes, and other mobile equipment, ready for a start early in March.

New machinery is being moved into the Deeks-McBride gravel pit at Mill Bay, which will provide the 175,000 tons required for the job. It will be ferried across Saanich Inlet to Patricia Bay, where it will be stockpiled at the west end of the airport property.

Value of the machinery to be used on the job is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Completion date for the project is Aug. 30.

Contract Let On $42,000 Home for Old

Weismiller Construction Co. has been awarded the contract for construction of the first unit of six apartments for senior citizens, the Gorge View Society announced today.

The company tendered a $42,000 bid for the project and indicated it could start construction almost immediately.

Plans call for ultimate construction of some 40 buildings at an estimated cost of $500,000 on the society's five-acre site on the Gorge near Harriet.

The first unit will provide low-rent accommodation for two married couples and four single pensioners. Its construction will be supervised by Prof. Neil Swainson, chairman of the society's building committee, and former Ald. Ed Williams, superintendent of building.

The society, sponsored by the United Church of Canada, plans to devote about 60 per cent of the complete development to accommodation for single persons.

'Siren-Deaf' Motorist Faces Charge

A city motorist was to be charged with failing to heed an emergency vehicle siren following crash of a fire truck into a parked car at Hillside and Graham shortly before 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the fire truck, being driven to an apartment blaze by Gordon C. Smith, 2969 Cedar Hill, slowed down and veered to the right to miss a car pulling away from a stop sign on Graham.

The fire truck was in collision with a car parked about 75 feet east of Graham on the south side of Hillside. There was no damage to the parked car and only slight damage to the fire truck.'

Woman Freed in Stabbing In Downtown Hotel Room

A Victoria woman charged with wounding a man with whom she lived was freed in city police court today when the victim said he had stabbed himself accidentally.

Elizabeth M. McLellan, New England Hotel, was charged with causing bodily harm by wounding Robert Henry Jones in their hotel room last Thursday.

Police laid the charge after investigating the incident, which followed a drinking session. Jones was the Crown's principle witness.

Magistrate William Ostler said he did not believe Jones' story given in the witness stand.

"The evidence you have given is certainly beyond the credulity of any reasonable man," he said, and turning to the accused he added:

"You are probably getting a break you don't deserve."

Jones said he and the accused had been drinking at two hotels and returned to their own room with bottles of liquor and wine.

He said the accused was cutting up some chicken with a knife when she told him she was going back to one of the hotels.

"I said you're not going anywhere. You've had enough," Jones told the court.

"She came upon me with the knife in her hand and said she would go where she liked."

The two then jostled against each other.

"I didn't realize I had been cut. I didn't realize until the next morning that I had been cut. It was purely accidental on my part."

"You state then that you stabbed yourself?" prosecutor T. P. O'Grady asked.

"Yes," Jones replied.

HOSPITALIZED

Police had taken Jones to hospital where he was detained two days.

Mr. O'Grady said the statement taken from Jones after the incident was equivocal with his testimony, in view of which she neither wished to ask that the witness be declared hostile nor to proceed further.

TORONTO (CP)—Two men, one of them armed, held up a woman clerk on a street in suburban Scarborough today and escaped in a car with a $1,600 payroll.

REVISE BNA ACT

Sask. Premier Seeks Broader Bill of Rights

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas has proposed an amendment to the British North America Act to protect human rights.

In a statement here today, Premier Douglas said he has written Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking that a federal-provincial conference he held to consider such a change in the act.

The premier said few Canadians could quarrel with the objectives of a bill or rights. But he said a bill contained "in an ordinary statute of Parliament" would have limitations. It would be restricted to matters within the jurisdiction of parliament.

Mr. Douglas' draft proposal would prevent Parliament or any provincial legislature from making laws "abridging freedom of speech and expression or of the press or other means of communication, or freedom of religion, or the right of lawful assembly, association or organization."

The BNA Act amendment would also prevent excessive bail, cruel or unusual punishment, and exiling of Canadian citizens. It would stop "unreasonable interference" in a person's privacy and arbitrary arrest or detention without trial.

Another section of the proposed amendment would prevent discrimination against a person because of race, sex, religion, or language. Regardless of these things, any person would have the right to vote or be a member of Parliament the right to employment and education, and the right to belong to any professional association.

GROMYKO

Peace Or War Warning

MOSCOW (CP) — Foreign Minister Gromyko today told the Communist party congress that West Germany faces "only two alternatives" — agreeing to a peace treaty or starting nuclear armament, which "means preparation of a new war."

Any war now could "result only in the defeat of the aggressor and the extent of this defeat would be unparalleled by anything known in history."

Western leaders had embarked on an aggressive course which reflected "the still-undying hopes of some hotheads that it is possible to put back the clocks of history."

"The Soviet Union is ready today to reach agreement on the German question," he said. "But if such agreement is not reached—and that will not be our fault — then the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries will search for other ways of solving this question."

Fulton Holds Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Davie Fulton, Canada's minister of justice, conferred with Attorney-General William P. Rogers today to try to patch up a strain in relations resulting from U.S. anti-trust action involving Canadian firms.

New Labor Board Studied

The possibility of establishing an advisory council to the minister of labor, with equal representation by unions and management, was disclosed in the B.C. Legislature today.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, speaking in the Throne Speech debate, said the idea of such a council as carried out in Australia is "one that seems to me to carry considerable merit."

He said in Australia the council meets quarterly "and studies matters of public interest and concern in the field of labor management relations. Unemployment is a major field of study.

The minister said he did not know if it would be possible to use such a council in B.C., but "if government, labor and mangement, in the field of labor - management relations, have reached that stage in their evolution, then we might go forward."

The statement was the only hint in the minister's speech of any possible new labor legislation.

U.S. Prepared to Share Columbia Power With B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States apparently has tacitly recognized Canada's entitlement to downstream benefits on the Columbia River, informants said today.

They said this appears to be the real meaning behind a joint announcement today by the Canadian and U.S. governments that the International Joint Commission has been instructed to recommend apportionment between the two countries of power developed on the Columbia.

Up to now, the U.S. section of the commission has never conceded that Canada was entitled to a share of power generated on the U.S. part of the Columbia from water fed down from storage dams on the Canadian part of the river. The U.S. section's attitude was that the American government had not made up its mind on this problem.

Sources said the U.S. government would not instruct the U.S. section of the commission to discuss apportionment of downstream benefits unless it had recognized that Canada was entitled to a share of these benefits.

Thus Canada can be said to have won a major victory in the diplomatic exchanges which have been in progress for the last year or two on future development of the Columbia, which rises in British Columbia and flows through the U.S. Pacific northwest.

Informants said it may take many months before firm agreement is reached on sharing of downstream benefits.

B.C. Gov't Approval Needed

Not only would agreement between Canada and the U.S. have to be achieved but concurrence of the British Columbia government would have to be obtained. Water resources come under provincial jurisdiction.

The six-member International Joint Commission is not scheduled to meet until March 16 at Chicago when it will discuss the report of the Columbia River engineering board.

The Canadian government has indicated that Canada wants 50 per cent of power generated at U.S. dams on the Columbia from water stored behind Canadian dams.

But it is far from clear to what this 50 per cent share would apply. It might apply to one or several of Canadian or U.S. dams.

The external affairs department announced that the two governments have asked the Canadian and American sections of the commission to recommend "at an early date" on these two matters:

1. Benefits which will re-

Williston Welcomes Report

The report that U.S. authorities have tacitly agreed to Canada's right to downstream benefit return was welcomed by B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston as a "first step" toward power development of the Columbia River.

He claimed "there can be no doubt this agreement has been obtained because of plans to develop the Peace."

The minister pointed out that "tacit agreement" still indicates a great deal of bargaining lies ahead to determine mutually the rate of power return.

The U.S. would pay for benefits they would receive for dam construction north of the international border because of controlled flows of water to its own power installations.

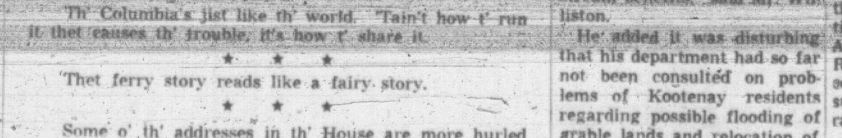
Because of the bargaining time-lag, plus the complicated engineering, construction and financing requirements for a public development on the Columbia, the Peace River is still the only solution to the urgent need for power in B.C., the minister said.

"The Peace is a single shot; the Columbia is a complex development," he stated.

"They thought the Peace was a bluff," said the minister. He felt that if B.C. had not shown it could develop alternative power of some magnitude, the U.S. would have delayed in hopes B.C. would have had to develop the Columbia to answer the urgent power need of the 1960s, or else go into high-cost thermogeneration on a wide scale.

"Up to now the U.S. authorities had never got to the point where they would sit down and seriously study downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

He added it was disturbing that his department had so far not been consulted on problems of Kootenay residents regarding possible flooding of arable lands and relocation of homes and roads.



Th' Columbia's jist like th' world. 'Tain't how t' run it thet causes th' trouble, it's how t' share it.

Pay Boost Key To New Contract For CPR Fleet

The 14-months-old Canadian Pacific ferry dispute ended early today.

Federal mediator Eric Taylor wired Labor Minister Starr at 3 a.m. that the company and three unions signed an agreement extending to Aug. 31, 1961.

The agreement is expected to apply to Black Ball Ferries, which said earlier it would offer the same terms to its employees that the CPR signed.

The settlement averted the threat of a new strike in mid-February, and forestalled the possibility of compulsory arbitration.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but it is understood the officer groups —Marine Engineers and Merchant Service Guild—will get a 3 per cent boost Feb. 1, another 3 per cent Sept. 1 this year, and a final 3 per cent Sept. 1, 1960.

Pay boost terms for the Seafarers' International Union were not revealed.

BIGGER RAISE

It was learned unofficially that the SIU will receive a greater wage increase percentage-wise than the officer groups, although this will result in a smaller boost in terms of dollars.

The increases for th[illegible] ficer groups are in a[illegible] to an 8 per cent hike a[illegible] all three unions July 26, 1[illegible] under the federal order which resulted in the government administering the ferry fleet pending a settlement.

Mr. Taylor said today the agreement provides "most significantly for an end to the threat of interruption in the coast steamship service until after the tourist season of 1961 is ended."

He told The Times the agreement came after five days of intensive negotiations with union representatives conducted "without fanfare and trumpets."'

Some 26 issues originally in dispute had been narrowed down to four—terms of agreement, wages, welfare and overtime.

Earlier, a Vancouver SIU spokesman had disclosed that the union was planning to strike the line immediately after federal control ended in February.

Under provisions of the federal administration order, control was to end 30 days after the current session of parliament began. On the basis of 30 calendar days, this date would have been Feb. 15, or

PRINCE RAINIER
. . . master of 368 acres

Monte Carlo Crack Down by Monarch

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — Prince Rainier III of Monaco, one of the world's last absolute monarchs, acted dramatically today to make his rule even more absolute.

Rainier told the 21,000 Monagasques over whom he rules that some people were trying to whittle away some of his power and he wasn't going to put up with it.

Then the master of all the 368 acres he surveys suspended the constitution which his grandfather, Prince Albert, gave to the paradise principality on the French Riviera in 1911.

In a radio broadcast to his subjects, the 36-year-old monarch disbanded the legislative national council, which had been quietly snipping away at his powers for the past year.

The municipal council got the same treatment—summary firing.

Only last night, the popular prince and his equally popular wife, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and Hollywood, hobnobbed with council members at a gala performance in the Royal Theatre of "The Good Soup," a play about prostitutes.

The operetta-style crisis, which could probably happen only here or in Princess Grace's former realm—Hollywood — extended from the royal palace to the man on the street and the croupier behind the casino gaming table.

The populace, whether fond of him or not, was ordered by the prince not to gather in the streets or to demonstrate against the measures he was announcing.

CPR Pays Fine For Boat Smoke

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway was convicted Wednesday in police court on a charge of committing a nuisance by causing a condition of air pollution. A fine of $25 was levied. The charge was laid after a complaint from a smoke inspector that smoke from a company boat docked at a downtown wharf covered his car with soot.

TRANSFUSIONS 'NOT TOO IMPROBABLE'

Animal Blood for Humans?

(See also Page 19)

It does not seem "too improbable" that animal blood soon may be used in transfusions for humans, Dr. Gordon Fryer, chief of Canada's civil defence medical services, said here today.

"It may break within six months or two years."

Blood groups of animals follow the same general classes as human blood groups, he said, and experiments have gone as far as successfully transfusing blood between different types of animals.

The next step would be between animals and humans.

Experiments in Canada have been conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, he said, by veterinarians.

"The possibility came about by veterinarian research."

He added: "We are mammals, too."

Physicians are "quite interested" in the experiments by veterinarians, he said, but are making no pronouncements until developments warrant.

Dr. Fryer, eight years chief medical officer of civil defence, said exchange of blood between animals and humans would provide a great help in any national emergency.

'No Serious Gaps' In U.S. Defences

WASHINGTON (A)—Secretary of Defence Neil McElroy told senators today that if Russia starts a war in the near future, the outcome will be decided by long-range bombers in which the United States is superior.

Neither the Soviet Union nor the U.S. now has an operational inter-continental ballistic missile, McElroy insisted. And he questioned whether Russia' vast submarine fleet could inflict heavy damage by surprise attacks with short-range missles.

McElroy's estimate of the relative U.S.-Soviet strength came during two hours of sharp questioning.

McElroy said:

1. The first ICBM operational base in the U.S. will be in use at Camp Cook, Calif., next June.

2. It is true that some range has been sacrificed for the polaris missile, originally planned as a 1,500-mile weapon, in order to speed the program. The defence secretary said this submarine-fired missile did not require 1,500 miles range to be capable of hitting vital parts of the Soviet Union.

3. There are no serious gaps in America's defences.

MORE DEATH, LESS BIRTH AT DUNCAN

DUNCAN—Births and marriages reported to the provincial government office in Duncan in 1958 were below the 1957 total, while the death rate rose.

Births last year were eight below the 1957 total of 500, and marriages dropped to 120 from the 1957 figure of 146. The death total rose from 148 in 1957 to 155 last year.

The government office here registers vital statistics for Districts 65 and 66, including Duncan and district, and Cowichan Lake.

Feb. 25 on the basis of 30 days of actual session.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said the "people of this whole area have a big debt of gratitude to pay Mr. Taylor."

"His patient, persistent and able conduct of negotiations brought this about," he said. "He never gave up. He came quietly and went to work without any publicity. It is a tremendous job that he has done."

Chamber of Commerce manager John Coppinger said he hoped "this will be the prelude to many years of harmony between the company and its employees."

Also "pleased to death" was publicity bureau commissioner George Warren.

"We want no trouble with ferry strikes this summer," he said. "Already the inquiries from tourists are coming in at the rate of 25 letters a day."

The SIU struck the CPR line May 16, 1958, in support of demands for a 16 per cent wage boost across the board, plus another 9 per cent in 1959. The company offered 8 per cent.

Parliament's unprecedented legislation ending the strike became law July 25, with the steamship service being restored immediately.

The legislation provided for an immediate 8 per cent increase while negotiations continued.

The statute gave the government power, as a last resort, to refer the dispute to arbitration.

Mr. Taylor said in his telegram to Ottawa that the dispute had been settled "by the willingness of all parties to make concessions and therefore it will not be necessary to invoke compulsory arbitration powers."

SPANKING LEGALIZED

Fire Chief Dies During $1M Blaze

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (UPI)—A volunteer fire chief collapsed and died during a $1,000,000 blaze which leveled the Leonard Brothers fish plant and threatened nearby oil tanks before it was brought under control.

Sydney Mines volunteer fire chief, Lew Jessome, 69, collapsed and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Fire departments from four Cape Breton communities—Sydney Mines, Sydney, the Point Edward naval base in Westmount and North Sydney—plus fire pumps from two ships responded to the alarm.

At one time the blaze raged to within 50 feet of 4,000-gallon oil tanks on Kelly's wharf.

sult from co-operative use of storage of water and electrical interconnection within the Columbia River system;

2. Apportionment between the two countries of such benefits, more particularly in regard to electrical generation and flood control

The department said the request was made to the commission "to emphasize the need for an early report from the commission on the specific problem of the allocation of benefits to be derived from the co-operative development of the Columbia River system."

Plans Okayed For New School

Sketch plans for the new Belmont Junior High School on Station Road have been approved by Sooke District 63 school board.

The building, to cost an estimated $115,000, will include eight classrooms and an administration unit, and will be designed to be added to up to a maximum of 20 rooms.

It will be erected on the grounds of the present Belmont Junior-Senior High School on Jacklin Road, and will require that the present school board office building be moved.

A referendum authorizing the school building program was approved by ratepayers last year. Architects Wade, Stockdill and Armour have instructions to start working drawings as soon as the education department has approved the sketch plans and the referendum is final.

Student 'Co-Op' To Tour Europe

Nearly 200 Victoria high school students are planning to share in a self-paid trip to Britain and Europe in 1960.

R. W. Mercer, teacher of social studies and English at Oak Bay High School, has proposed that interested students should get busy and earn the money themselves for the trip.

"It would cost about $500 each for all expenses," he says. "It is better that the students earn their own passage money instead of receiving hand-outs from their parents.

"They would appreciate it more."

The idea has grown to the extent that almost 200 high school students throughout Greater Victoria have now launched plans to raise funds for the trip.

Mr. Mercer, a former teacher in English, has conducted similar tours from there to the continent.

He is now holding regular meetings of students to discuss arrangements and places to visit.

Arrangements have been made with a bank in Victoria to look after funds, and the working students will follow a timetable whereby they bank about $5 a week for the trip.

Tentative plans call for the party to go by rail to New York, then by charter plane across the Atlantic. Then, for about three and a half weeks, they will tour Europe, visiting Paris, Lausanne, perhaps Rome, Vienna, Munich, Bonn and Ostend.

In each city they will see places of historic and cultural interest but will be housed outside the big cities.

They may spend two weeks in Britain, with the party splitting up into various groups for different tours. One reason for this is that many students have relatives in different parts of the country and they will be able to visit them.

Each small group will be accompanied by a teacher and at least one will be qualified to administer medical aid if required.

Cabinet Would Flee To Mainland in War

Plans to move the seat of government to the mainland in event of war are being studied by the provincial civil defence committee, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday.

The scheme is part of a national plan involving discussions between Ottawa officials and all provincial CD authorities. It is thought likely some government institution in the Fraser Valley or the interior would be chosen for a relocation in this province.

Establishment of a provisional, skeleton government on the mainland would eliminate possible difficulties in Island-mainland communication if war occurred.

Accused Changes Innocent Plea In Murder Case

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Luis Moya, one of two men charged with murder in the strangulation of Olga Duncan today withdrew his plea of innocent.

However, Moya did not plead guilty and retained his plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

The surprise move paved the way for Moya to testify against Augustine Baldonado and Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan — Olga Duncan's mother-in-law — who also are charged with murder.

Moya said he decided to change his plea after "prayerful consideration." The district attorney did not oppose the action.

Mrs. Duncan and Baldonado pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity and face trial Feb. 16.

SCHOOL POLICING URGED

'Blind' Students Pose Traffic Trap

LANGFORD — Non-observance of traffic laws by students of Belmont Junior-Senior High School was brought before the meeting of the Belmont Parent-Teachers Council this week.

It was suggested the school area be policed when students [illegible] and that students should stay off the motorist's part of the road.

Lack of co-operation from the students using the roads has made the area a hazard for motorists in the 15-mile-an-hour zone.

The situation is worse during bad weather, with drivers having to apply brakes when not necessary nor advisable on icy roads. The problem extends beyond the school area and is a danger to motorists not familiar with the unco-operative ways of the students. Motorists are doing more than their part in the 15-mile zone, it was stated.

Permission was granted for the boys' basketball team to purchase new T-shirts at an approximate cost of $30.

Date of the annual school bazaar was set for April 24.

It was reported by the council that repairs to stage curtains had been made and paid for, and a make-up kit for the drama club purchased.

Changes in the by-laws were discussed in preparation for the next annual meeting.
